Ulster Arterial Plans Going 'Full Blast'

Decision Soon on Albany Ave. Widening

KINGSTON

A decision on the future (widening) of Albany Avenue from the General Sharpe Cemetery on out to its junction with Foxhall Avenue is expected early this summer from the State Department of Transportation, The Freeman learned today.

Department officials, contacted at regional headquarters in Poughkeepsie, said that survey work has been completed on the road and that a traffic count is now being taken, to be completed "early this summer."

"We will definitely correct the drainage problem," a department spokesman told The Freeman. "We're waiting for the completion of traffic counts so we'll know how wide to make the road. The official added that the decision to widen Albany Avenue in the city "was not definite" but was likely.

The official said that in any case, before a final decision was made, a public hearing "if requested" would be held where department plans could be questioned by area residents.

While plans for Albany Avenue are still in the preliminary stage, work on the Ulster Arterial from Esopus to Route 32 in the Town of Ulster via a new bridge across the Rondout at Hasbrouck Avenue, are "going full blast," in the words of a Department of Transportation spokesman.

Right of way maps have been completed and property acquisition has begun on the new road.

"Construction depends on three things," a department spokesman said, "when we can get the (construction) plans completed, property acquisitions and budget allocations."

Speaking of budget allocations, the spokesman said, "We live from year to year," but added that the Ulster Arterial has a "number one" priority in Kingston and Ulster County and has one of the highest priorities in the seven county region (Ulster, Dutchess, Orange, Rockland, Putnam, Westchester and Columbia) headquartered at Poughkepsie.

Special

Traffic tieups on Albany Avenue has been a subject of considerable concern in this area for at least five years with the old county Board of Supervisors going on record in March of 1967, calling for a traffic study and a modern four-lane highway from Albany Avenue and Foxhall Avenue out to the Kingston Rhinecliff Bridge approaches on Rt. 9W.

That particular resolution was sponsored by former Supervisor Addison Jones of Kingston and Thaddeus Musialkiewicz of the Town of Ulster. Jones, though out of office, has continued to work on the problem and has asked Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr. for a review of the situation. Jones told The Freeman that Fish has agreed to meet with him next month.

The department of transportation's initial position on the widening of Albany Avenue, through its district engineer, M. Nicholas Sinacori, in August of 1968, was "Frankly, how wide Albany Avenue should be made and how many lanes it should contain will depend on the specific location of the future Albany Avenue extension.

"It stands to reason," Sinacori said at the time, "that if the Albany Avenue extension is built too far easterly or not built at all, it will affect the volumes of traffic that will remain on Albany Avenue.

"In essence," Sinacori concluded, "the work we have been doing on the 9W alternate is a preliminary necessity to the evaluation required for Albany Avenue."

There is still not total agreement that the widening of Albany Avenue will solve the traffic problem. City Legislator Melvin Mones says that the state will have to take a look at an alternative route.

"Everyone is afraid of the cost, naturally," Mones said. "But the widening of Albany Avenue will not solve the problem. We're rapidly falling 20 years behind the times."

Meanwhile, the state is continuing its survey of the situation. "You can be sure that we're well aware of the problems," a spokesman concluded.

Nixon Buoyed By Turnout In Alabama

WASHINGTON (U P I) — Buoyed by a warm reception from more than 150,000 persons in Alabama Tuesday, President Nixon had reason to be encouraged that his popularity in the South has not seriously been eroded by a speedup in school desegregation.

Large, enthusiastic crowds turned out in humid, 90-degree weather to see him in stops at Mobile and Birmingham.

He responded to this gesture of Southern hospitality and a gracious welcome by Gov. George C. Wallace by praising the South for accomplishing a "peaceful, relatively quiet, very significant revolution", which has resulted in more black children attending predominantly white schools than in the North.

And he criticized Northerners who "point their fingers" at the South on the racial issue.

"I know the difficult problems most of you in the Southern states have had on the school desegregation problem" he told a gathering of approximately 150 news executives in an hour-long meeting at Birmingham.

"I went to school in the South, so therefore I am more familiar with how Southerners feel about that problem than others ...

"And I have nothing but utter contempt for the double, hypocritical standards of Northerners who look at the South and point the finger and say why don't those Southerners do something about their race problem?"

Citing progress in school integration during the past three years, Nixon said 38 per cent of all black children in the South attend predominantely white schools while in the North the ratio is only 28 per cent.

"There has been no progress in the North the past three years in that respect and there has been significant progress in the South," he said.

He attributed the achievement to "far-sighted leaders, black and white" who recognize their responsibility to obey the law of the land.

The President's six-hour-long visit took him first to Mobile to dedicate the Alabama-Tombigbee Waterway, a $386 million project that will connect the mid-South and Midwest to the Gulf of Mexico.

Encouraged by the novelty of the first presidential visit in 58 years, a crowd estimated by police at 80,000 persons lined a two-mile stretch of Main Street to cheer the President.

California Orchard Yields Nine Bodies

YUBA CITY, Calif. (UPI)—Sheriff's deputies charged a 40-year-old farm labor contractor today with the murder of nine men whose bodies were found buried in an orchard along the Feather River.

He was identified as Juan V. Corona, who was arrested without resistance at a Yuba City home and booked on nine counts of murder.

Authorities would not speculate on a motive and did not indicate how Corona came to be suspected. But shortly before he was arrested, deputies brought in two boxes containing tools such as pliers, an axe, knives and a four-foot shovel caked with dirt.

He was picked up within hours of the discovery of the bodies buried in the orchard and nearby riverbank undergrowth.

The victims—all middle-aged Caucasians who apparently were transient field hands—had been stabbed and hacked to death with "a machete or a large, heavy knife," Sheriff Roy Whiteaker reported.

All were killed by the same person over a period of five or six weeks, he said.

Deputies making an inch-by-inch search under spotlights unearthed seven bodies Tuesday night and early today from muddy graves along a half mile stretch of the Feather River.

The first two bodies—one found last Thursday and the other early Tuesday—were buried in a peach and prune orchard about two miles away across U.S. 99.

Whiteaker said his deputies would resume their grim search today with two more graves located along the river side in this farming area 195 miles northeast of San Francisco.

The officers halted digging early today because rain was interfering with their lights and they were exhausted after removing bodies all afternoon and evening.

The first of the bodies, found on the big James Sullivan Ranch about five miles north of Yuba City, has been identified as Kenneth Edward Whittaker, 40.

Whittaker, the sheriff and coroner of Sutter County, said the other victims, who were not identified, seemed to range in age from 40 to the 60s.

"There's no question that all the murder victims have the same type of wounds in the back of the head, the chest and the facial area," he said. "I would rule out an axe as the murder weapon; it could have been either a machete or a large heavy knife."

He said each of the victims had been hacked severely in the back of the head, that some had heavy facial lacerations, and that most had been stabbed in the chest.

All were buried three to five feet beneath the ground, lying on their backs with their arms extended above their heads and their shirts pulled up over their bloody heads.

Two of the graves found near the river appeared to be fresh, "probably dug within the past 48 hours," the sheriff said. The rest seemed to be a little older, maybe as far back as five or six weeks, he said.

The graves along the Feather River were found in heavy brush and wild grapevine about a dozen feet from the stream. Three bodies were unearthed a few feet apart, two others were discovered nearby and another pair were found a quarter mile away.

Sheriff Whittaker ordered an inch-by-inch search of the region after foreman Ray Duron of the Sullivan Ranch reported the second body Tuesday morning.

It was found in the orchard about a quarter of a mile from the grave where Whittaker's remains were discovered last Thursday. The sheriff also said a farmer reported finding an empty grave a month ago in the field 400 yards from Whittaker's grave. The man filied it in a week later and didn't report it to police until after the first body was dug up.

All the victims wore clothes except one man who was wearing only a shirt.

Some of the bodies had two pairs of pants and two shirts, indicating the victims were transient laborers, investigators said. The orchards are being thinned at this time of year.

Republicans Will Nominate Sheriff Martin for Reelection

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON

In an unprecedented move, the 20 Republican town chairmen of Ulster County agreed Tuesday night to nominate Democratic Sheriff William B. Martin.

Martin, a two-term sheriff, reportedly has indicated to the GOP that he will come to its June 8 convention at Kingston High School and accept the nomination.

The Democrats, whose convention will be held July 12, first put Martin up for office in 1965 and Martin subsequently won the endorsement of the Conservatives and the Liberals. As a three-way party candidate in 1968, he won with a handsome 18,000 vote margin.

The Ulster County Republican Committee also reportedly selected Richard Buono of Saugerties as candidate for coroner to run for the seat now held by Henry Hartley who does not seek reelection.

Buono, a mortician for the past six years is a member of the firm of Buono and McConeky, Saugerties.

Selecting Martin as a candidate followed dicussion on the merits of trying to find someone as "qualified" to run against him. It reportedly was the concensus of the 20 town chairmen that Martin has performed his duties well and that a man of his experience is needed in the position, especially in view of the cry for law and order these days.

The chairmen also reportedly took into consideration the fact that during the 1970 election Martin endorsed three Republican candidates out of four persons running for county office.

It was also revealed that all GOP county legislators, outside of the city, have agreed to seek another term with the exception of Lawrence Craft (R-Dist. 10) who is reportedly planning to retire from the political scene. Wawarsing Town Chairman Frank Harkin, indicated however that he would try to persuade Craft, a good vote getter, to seek another term.

In Saugerties, District 1, the two incumbents Charles Scala and Clifford Snyder will seek reelection. The Republican Committee has also endorsed two more candidates to oppose two Democrat incumbents. They are former Legislator C. Freeman Lasher, who lost his post by six votes in 1969 and Wilson Edmunds, 32 year old IBM employe and former president of the Saugerties Jaycees.

All five District 2 legislators, Lester C. Elmendorf, Douglas V. Dye, Lewis Hall, Richard D. Nace and S. Robert Kelder, are also endorsed for reelection.

Districts 3, 4, 5 and 6 in the City of Kingston have yet to report their candidates.

District 7 will field the incumbent Glenn Debrosky and have selected two men to oppose the remaining two Democrat candidates. They are E. Stirling Potter, former legislator, and Andrew Aurigemma, Esopus assessor.

District 8 has endorsed the incumbents Peter J. Savago and Louis Bevier.

District 9 too is endorsing its five legislators, Ralph C. Brach, Eugene O. Corey, Eugene K. Noe, James F. Palen and Brian R. White.

District 10 has not reported.

District 11 will retain its two incumbents as candidates, Philip H. Davis and Ernest J. Gardner.

District 12 has endorsed its incumbent William R. West.

County May File Suit For Thruway Murder

KINGSTON

A possible negligence action may be brought by the County of Ulster against Westchester County, its sheriff and the State of New York as the result of the Sept. 13, 1968 slaying of a police officer and prisoner on the New York State Thruway in Plattekill.

County Legislator Lester C. Elmendorf (R-Dist. 2), in a resolution filed with the County Legislature today asks that the Ulster County Attorney conduct a detailed legal investigation of the facts surrounding the crime to determine if there is sufficient grounds for a negligence action.

Elmendorf, chairman of the Judicial and Legal Committee said that a conservative estimate of the cost of two lengthy trials in Ulster Court amounts to a figure in excess of $100,000.

Charles Culhane, 25 and Gerald McGivern, 26, the defendants, charged with the murder of the deputy sheriff, were convicted earlier this year and sentenced to die in the electric chair. Their case is being appealed.

Describing the murder in which there was an exchange of gunfire, Elmendorf said that at the time the crime was committed, three prisoners who were known to be dangerous, were being transported by two deputy sheriffs from Westchester County Sheriff's Department in a private vehicle owned by one of the deputy sheriffs and without any security appointments usually installed in police vehicles.

The Town of Ulster Legislator said that New York State is involved in that prisoners confined to penal institutions or in transit for any reason, are considered to be in the care, custody and control of the State of New York.

Elmendorf said that if the county attorney's investigation discloses that there is sufficient evidence as to negligence, he may proceed with the necessary litigation to recover damages on behalf of the taxpayers of the county.

Hurley Voters Retain Three-Assessor System

HURLEY

Town of Hurley Supervisor George Schroeder said today that he is "pleased" with Tuesday's decision by the voters to retain the current three-man Board of Assessors.

Hurley residents voted 332-67 to retain the three-man elected assessor system, and in doing so rejected a state recommended plan that called for the appointment of one full time assessor for a six year term.

Earleir, the Hurley Town Board passed a local law retailing the current system. That local law was upheld in yesterday's public referendum balloting.

Schroeder said there are distinct advantages to the elected assessor system. While each assessor serves for a four year term, one of them must come up for reelection every two years, giving the voters the opportunity to reject a man they feel is not doing a satisfactory job. The Supervisor added that the people have no control over an appointed assessor, and "if he's no good, you're stuck with him for six years."

Of Hurley's 3,206 registered voters, 401 went to the polls Tuesday, representing 12.5 per cent of the electorate. There were two void ballots.

State law mandates that each town hold a referendum on the assessor question prior to July 1. Hurley's new law will become effective 20 days after yeaterday's voter approval.

Common Cause Comes to Area

KINGSTON

A people's lobby? A pressure group manned by hundreds of thousands of John and Jane Does, who draw their 'clout' from sheer force of numbers?

There's no reason to doubt it works — and works successfully; is, in fact, an idea whose time has come. Though only six months old and still a babe in swaddling clothes, Common Cause boasts an incredible 150,000 members; predicts it will have 200,000 by the end of its first year.

Common Cause is the brainchild of John Gardner, former Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare and Chairman of the Urban Coalition. Aimed at making government more responsibe to today's needs through an aroused and organized citizenry pledged to revitalizing "The System," it's catching on like wildfire nationwide. Today, Common Cause has chapters in every congressional district in New York State; came to Kingston Tuesday night to set up a local group.

The session, held at the Savings and Loan Association, drew close to 70 local residents. Cause's volunteer area coordinator, Harold Harris of Ellenville — a retired businessman, stressed that the organization will not support any party or any candidate, but is open to members of all parties who believe an issue-oriented organization can function as a "dobule-barreled lobby."

Harris said Common Cause had been highly influential in the demise of the SST, stressing its funding as "a terrible misuse of appropriations." Cause fielded a coalition on this issue drawn from every walk of life, said Harris, because of the ecological and financial problems involved. "If you can't breathe," he emphasized, "it makes no difference if you're a Minuteman or a liberal."

On common ground issues, Cause is convinced political labels can be forgotten and a fight can be mounted to create a coalition. Presently, members are concentrating on the withdrawal of all U.S. forces from Vietnam on an orderly and scheduled timetable; pressuring Congress to cut war appropriations as a means toward this end.

The local chapter got off to a head start last night; formed a steering committee and others on membership and publicity.

DA Vogt Named To College Council

STONE RIDGE

Ulster County District Attorney Francis Vogt was named to the law enforcement advisory council at Ulster County Community College last night by the college board of trustees.

The appointment was announced at the regular monthly meeting of the board of trustees at the Stone Ridge Campus.

The council serves in an advisory capacity for the law enforcement curriculum at the college.

Trustees heard reports from the scholarship committee and the director of the College Skills Center.

To date the scholarship fund is at $7,080. Scholarships will be awarded at commencement June 6.

Lawrence Bourznato, director of the College Skills Center, described the operation of that area in a continuing program to acquaint trustees with all departments at the college.

Peter Nekos of Lomontville, president elect of the Student Government Organization, was introduced to the trustees. He will assume office in the fall.

Lawmakers Approve New State Welfare Bill

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — After a lot of shouting, the adjournment - bound legislature has given its approval to Gov. Rockefeller's proposed one-year residency requirement for welfare benefits. Few lawmakers doubt, however, that the courts will have the last word.

Court challenges were promised by black and Puerto Rican lawmakers and other groups within minutes after the measure cleared the Senate Tuesday night. A spokesman for the New York Civil Liberties Union said a court suit already is being prepared, considering that Rockefeller's signature was assured.

"I would expect," said Sen. Seymour Thaler, D - Queens, "that a suit will be filed within 24 hours after the governor signs the bill."

The measure, which was passed last Saturday by the Assembly, was one of the hurdles facing the legislators as they drove for final adjournment of the lengthy 1971 session.

Adjournment still seemed a few days away, although the Senate passed a resolution scheduling an end to the session at 3 p.m. today. This was an updated version of the resolution passed last week that scheduled adjournment Tuesday afternoon.

The debate over the residency bill consumed almost four hours in the Senate and strained the tempers of many lawmakers.

"I spent the first 13 years of my life in Nazi Germany where signs were posted saying 'Judenen Verboten'," exclaimed Manfred Ohrenstein, D-Manhattan. "With this bill, we are hanging up signs in airports, bus stations and highways saying: 'Black and Puerto Rican men and women verboten'."

"I charge you with racism and hypocrisy," Sen. Joseph Galiber, D-Bronx, yelled at Republican supporters. "How can you be so insensitive and callous?"

"It's a racist bill, it's disgusting," said Sidney von Luther, D-Manhattan. After Republican Sen. Martin Knorr of Queens objected to being called a racist, von Luther challenged him to a duel. "You just name the time and place in a country where it's legal," he said.

Under terms of the bill, newcomers to the state could be denied benefits and allowed only token aid — lunch, for example —and transportation home. The one-year residency requirement would continue during a five - year, "emergency period."

Officials for the State Social Services Department said that, if the policy had been in effect in the past five years, an average of 12,000 persons would have been affected each year. A savings of about $4 million a year for the state was forecast.

Thaler said that 12,000 persons represent less than one per cent of the state's 1.6 - million welfare population. Of the 12,000, he said, 8,000 would have been children.

"Never in the history of New York State has such a rotten, nasty, cruel, intemperate bill been submitted," he said.

In other developments in the legislature during the day:

— The Senate gave final legislative approval to Gov. Rockefeller's program to protect farmlands through the creation of agricultural districts.

— Rockefeller urged the legislature to endorse his plan to tighten regulations on handguns. He cited the killings of New York City policemen.

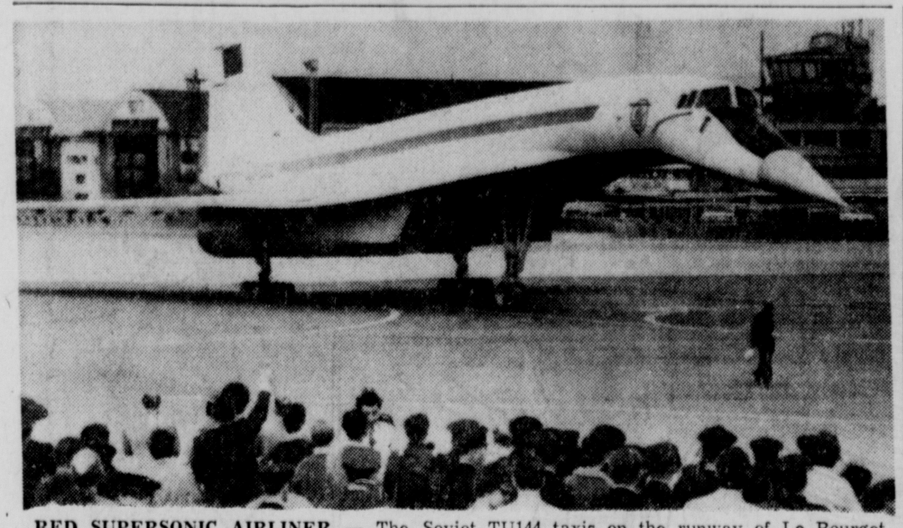

— The Blaine Amendment ban on state aid to church-affiliated schools headed for debate today in the Assembly after months of delay.

Courts have frowned on past attempts to establish welfare residency requirements, saying that all citizens are entitled to equal protection.

Rockefeller has noted, however, that the U.S. Supreme Court decision in outlawing a residency requirement did recognize a "compelling state interest."

He interpreted the "compelling state interest" in New York to be the housing shortage, narcotics plague, and overburdens on schools and health resources. The five-year emergency period was necessary, he said, "to help protect the state's economic and social viability."

GOP Against Stricter Gun Control

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — Upstate Republicans today were solidly opposed to stricter gun control laws, even though Governor Rockefeller says the recent killings of two New York City policemen show an "urgent need" for approval of his proposals.

"They've already got the toughest gun law in the country in New York City," said Assemblyman William Sears, R-Woodgate. "And that didn't stop the killings."

Rockefeller, whose bill to toughen pistol license requirements was apparently dead for the year, moved to revive it on Tuesday with a special message to the legislature.

"The brutal and cowardly gunshot slayings of two New York City police officers last Friday, in a week marked by rampaging attacks on police, tragically underscores the urgent need for stiffer gun control laws," he said.

"The bill is probably dead for the year," responded Assembly assistant Republican leader James L. Emery, R-Geneseo.

"For one thing, we'd have to add 300 state police to take over the licensing now done by local clerks."

As the lengthy session rumbled toward a Thursday or Friday adjournment, Senate Republican leader Earl W. Brydges urged his colleagues to curb the bitter debates and floor chaos which has sprung up in the final days.

"This has been one of the most frustrating sessions any of us has ever experienced," the 22 - year veteran from Niagara Falls told Senate colleagues, "we must be careful about personalities and attacks."

Only shortly before Brydges spoke, Assemblyman Neil W. Kelleher, R-Troy, became the third assemblyman to require hospitalization in a week.

Kelleher, who collapsed while presiding from the rostrum, was later reported in good condition at the Albany Medical Center Hospital.

Just before the illness, Kelleher had been attempting to gavel the unruly house to order.

"If not for ourselves, then at least for the taxpayers watching us," he said.

In its 10-hour session Tuesday, the Assembly:

— Rejected a measure to give the school boards in New York City and Buffalo a freer hand in teacher accreditation and promotion. The bill was endorsed by the two local boards, but opposed by the 17,000-member United Federation of Teachers.

—Sent the Senate a measure by Frederick Warder, R-Geneva, to earmark about $250,000 from parimutuel receipts for breeders of thoroughbreds in the state.

Finally, legislative leaders and Rockefeller reportedly reached agreement on a $35 million plan for increased parochial school aid this year.

It would provide about $27 per elementary student, $54 per high school student, and an extra $54 per student in low-income areas.

Baby Lenore and DeMartinos Somewhere in New Jersey

NEW YORK (UPI) —"Baby Lenore" was somewhere in New Jersey today, her adoptive parents defying New York state court orders directing them to return the year-old girl to her natural mother.

The flight of Nicholas and Jean DeMartino come to light Monday when their lawyer, Jacob D. Fuchsberg, said the Brooklyn couple "had decided to move out of the state into a fairer legal climate." A source close to the family later revealed the couple had moved to New Jersey, where a state appeals court had ruled in favor of adoptive parents in a similar case.

In the New Jersey case, handed down May 19 but announced Tuesday, a three-judge Superior Court panel overturned a lower court decision and ruled in favor of the adoptive parents of Laura Perez, 20. The girl's natural mother, who was not identified, had been suing to regain custody of the child.

In awarding Laura to Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Perez of Montclair, N.J., the court said "the emphasis in the (lower court) trial judge's resolution of an admittedly difficult problem was on natural biological parenthood, rather than was has been termed psychological parenthood... i.e. the mutual interaction between adult and child described in such terms as love, attention, basic trust and confidence considered essential for the child's successful development."

The court said, in ruling in favor of the Perez', that it was placing the interest of the child first, in accordance with New Jersey law.

The DeMartinos had exhausted their appeals through the New York courts in their fight to keep the child, adopted when she was four days old from a private agency. After their flight was made known Tuesday, State Supreme Court Justice Charles A. Loreto, in charge of the case, ordered the couple to return the child or face arrest on contempt charges.

The natural mother, Miss Olga Scarpetta, of Colombia, South America, put Lenore up for adoption when she was four days old, but later changed her mind and sued the agency to get the little girl back.

Miss Scarpetta was upheld throughout the state court system, and two weeks ago Justice Loreto suggested the adoption agency prepare a plan to return the child. The DeMartinos, who were not parties to any of the court actions, have appealed to the U.S. Supreme Court, their last legal avenue after a lower federal court declined to hear the case.

Miss Scarpetta's attorney, Joseph Zack, Monday asked federal officials in Brooklyn to look into possible kidnap charges against the DeMartinos, but a spokesman for U.S. Attorney Edward Neaher said Neaher had declined since federal authorities believed the DeMartinos had legal custody of Lenore when they left the state. The spokesman suggested Miss Scarpetta seek relief through the civil courts.

Dismiss Charges Against Panthers

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (UPI)—Conspiracy charges against Bobby G. Seale and Ericka Huggins were dismissed because the Superior Court judge decided the two Black Panthers could never again get an unbiased jury.

The jury had said they could not reach a verdict.

Judge Harold M. Mulvey freed Mrs. Huggins, 23, Tuesday after his ruling. Seale, 34, faces charges in connection with disorders at the 1968 Democratic National Convention and will stay in jail at least until Thursday, when his bail request will be reviewed by the U.S. Court of Appeals in Chicago.

The Superior Court jury of seven whites and five blacks said Monday they could not reach a verdict on several charges against Seale and Mrs. Huggins, which included murder conspiracy and kidnap conspiracy in the death of Alex Rackley, 25.

Mulvey ruled a mistrial.

"The state has put its best foot forward in presenting its effort to prove its cases against these defendants," he said Tuesday in dismissing the charges. "They have failed to convince a jury of their guilt.

"With the massive publicity attendant upon the trial just completed, I find it impossible to believe that an unbiased jury could be selected without superhuman efforts — efforts which this court, the state and these defendants should not be called upon either to make or endure."

Jury selection in the trial, which started Nov. 15, 1970, lasted four months. A total of 1,500 candidates were called before the final panel was selected.

The state said Rackley, a New York Panther, knew other party members were police informers and he kept his mouth shut. He was taken to New Haven, interrogated, tortured and killed. His body was found May 21, 1969 in a Middlefield swamp.

Mrs. Huggins was accused of participating in the interrogation. Seale, according to star prosecution witness George Sams, ordered the killing, carried out under Sams' direction.

Sams pleaded guilty to second degree murder in the case.

Seale's lawyers said Rackley was a Panther in good standing, not an informer, and the prosecution's case was either a police plot to discredit the Panthers or a fabrication of Sams', portrayed as a sadist and a mental defective. Other witnesses said Seale never saw Rackley nor talked to Sams.

Marine Recruiter To Head Post 150

KINGSTON — Kingston Post 150, American Legion, at its annual elections last week set a precedent in electing an active duty serviceman as its 55th commander for 1971-72. He is Marine Corps Recruitor Staff Sgt. Donald R. Misner of 176 Highland Avenue.

A Vietnam veteran with two tours of duty behind him, Sgt. Misner will complete 20 years of service in the spring of 1973 after which he states he will retire from the Marine Corps and remain in Kingston.

DONALD R. MISNER

Misner is a native of Auburn, and is serving in his fifth reenlistment with the Marines. During his 18 years of service, he has been in Europe and the Pacific. His first tour in Vietnam was with the 1st Marine Reconnaissance Company from May 1966 to February 1967. He returned again in June 1967 to Vietnam and remained there until May 1968 when he was assigned to recruiting duty in Kingston.

Other officers elected for the 1971-72 term along with Misner were Alton Feistel, John Kuehn and Michael Milano as vice-commanders; John D. White, adjutant; Fred Bayona, assistant adjutant; John Quigley, treasurer; Rabbi Harry Schectnam, chaplain; Clifford Harris, sergeant-at-arms; Paul C. Gardner, athletic officer; Charles M. King, historian; Albert O. Sonnenberg, service officer; Meyer Kaplan and Robert V. Delanoy, child and youth co-chairmen; John E. Van Dine, trustee for three years; and Ervin DeWitt, Paul C. Gardner, Frank T. Roedell and Gerard Geuss as members of the executive committee. Retiring Commander Orrin DeGraff is also an ex-officio member of the Executive committee.

Misner isn't the only active duty serviceman to hold office in Kingston Post 150 the forthcoming year. In electing Petty Officer First Class White, to the chief administrative office of post adjutant, Kingston Post 150 voted into this position the Naval recruiting officer assigned to Kingston. Petty Officer White is a native of Liberty and a 13-year career veteran of the Navy now serving in his fourth re-enlistment.

All officers elected at the May meeting will be installed at a special installation dinner meeting at Post 150 on West O'Reilly Street on Saturday June 26. Details for this insallation service and dinner will be announced later.

White and Misner maintain their recruiting offices at Broadway and Maiden Lane, along with the Air Force and the Army.

See Here, Veteran

KINGSTON — Reservists and National Guardsmen need not use their vacation time to fulfill their military obligation at summer training encampments or cruises, reminded Charles Culver, State Veteran Counselor, and John Tyler, Director.

An employer, they said, is bound by law to grant the necessary leave to an employee in order that he may perform his duty as a reservist or guardsman.

It's a two-way street, Culver and Tyler said, explaining that a reservist or guardsman must file a written request with his employer for leave for military training, setting forth the inclusive dates. He must also sign his request.

An employer cannot force an employee to take this vacation time coincident with the military training period.

As to payment of wages while away from the job, it is strictly a matter of company policy whether or not a reservist or guardsman continues to receive his wages or salary while fulfilling his training obligation. It is not a requirement of law.

Guardsmen and reservists can obtain complete information concerning their military training obligations by contacting their local New York State veterans counseling center. In this area it is located at County Office Building.

"Jobs for Veterans" is a nationwide effort on the part of business and government to improve job opportunities for returning servicemen and women. An estimated 80 per cent of the enlisted personnel and 95 per cent of the officers acquired a skill in service which can be converted to civilian use. Since most of the officers are college graduates and about 83 per cent of the enlisted men have 12 or more years of schooling, these returning veterans comprise an extensive labor pool from which employers can draw qualified personnel. And an employer can benefit under the GI Bill when he trains a veteran in an on-the-job or apprenticeship program because the VA will pay a part of the veterans salary while he is in training.

A 50 per cent or more disability rating entitles a veteran to additional compensation if he has dependents.

Mexican border veterans or their widows are now eligible for a non-service connected disability pension. If single, their annual income must not exceed $2,300 or $3,500 if they have dependents. The pension, like all other veterans benefits, is not automatic. An application must be filed with the VA. And, since the amount of the pension is based upon income, all income, including railroad retirement, must be reported.

Loans for the purchase of mobile homes and mobile home sites may not be guaranteed after July 1, 1975. A veteran's eligibility for a guaranteed home loan is restored when the mobile home loan has been repaid in full.

Extensive Shopping Area Planned North of Rhinebeck

By TIM SCHUSTER

RHINEBECK — What may be the first step in an extensive shopping area north of the Village of Rhinebeck is currently before the Town Planning Board.

The Grand Union, long a resident of the village, has purchased 15 acres on Astor Flats along Rout 9, according to Realtor Helen Battistoni who handled the deal. She noted that the transaction had been completed and that the company is waiting for approval from the Planning Board on its plans before beginning construction.

Arthur Carl, Chairman of the Zoning Board of Appeals, noted that the preliminary plan put before the Planning Board recently by Grand Union was not a formal application and that more information was needed before a final approval could be granted.

And James Loftus, Zoning Enforcement Officer, concurred that the Planning Board had asked for a better site plan with details. He said that the Planning Board expected this information within the week.

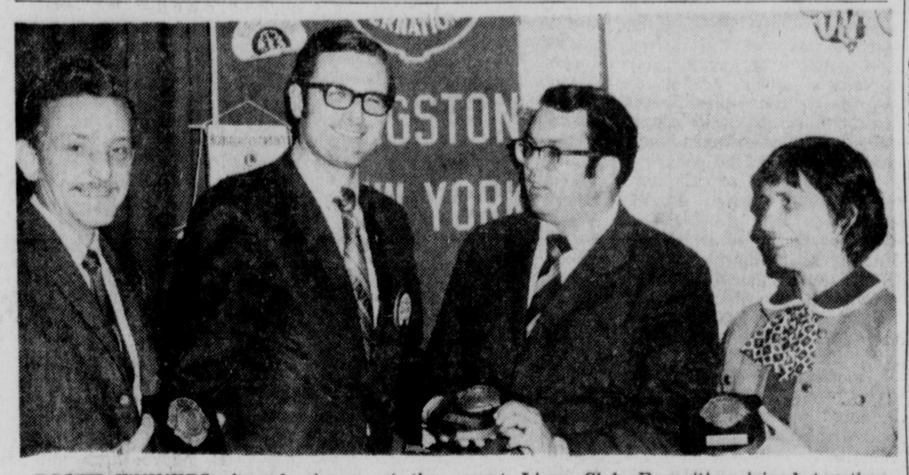

The problem seems to be one of details, an academic question, according to several parties involved. The only question is "when" rather than "whether" retail development including the Grand Union will begin construction between Red Hook and Rhinebeck.

The Grand Union proposal calls for two buildings on the site. The 24,000 square foot building would be used for the food chain and a 10,000 square foot building broken up for smaller businesses. A preliminary target date for opening, if all goes well, has been reported as by Christmas of this year.

One of the hottest items of contention during the long months of zoning hearings before the adoption of the Town Zoning Law was whether the Rt. 9 frontage, primarily owned by Kinderhook resident Jennie Kennett, should remain agricultural and residential or become commercial.

The town ultimately decided to allow 1,200 feet of highway frontage south of the Route 9 and 9G traffic light to become commercial. Most of the opposition came from merchants in the Village of Rhinebeck who feared shopping centers would undermine their livelihood.

Mrs. Kennett owns nearly 1,100 acres of prime land in the area, and a New York City investor, Victor Weingarten, owns an additional 225 acres of former Beekman Acres land which adjoins a portion of Mrs. Kennett's.

Budget Hearing Set By Rhinebeck Board

RHINEBECK — The Rhinebeck Board of Education approved its proposed budget, up about a quarter-million dollars, at its regular meeting this week with no dissenting votes.

The proposed figure is $2,247,312.75. A public budget hearing will be held June 2 at the high school when a breakdown of the figures will be presented. The hearing will be preached at 8 p.m. by a candidates night, presented jointly by the Rhinebeck PTA and the League of Women Voters.

As of Tuesday evening, no candidate had submitted a petition. The deadline for filing is midnight today. Four district residents have taken out petitions. They are Mrs. Elinor Letsche, 66 Montgomery Street; Albert Vinck, Nine Partners Road, Clinton Corners; Mrs. Virginia Karl, 3 Manor Road; and Dr. James McClenahan's son Jim, who would like to see his father run for another term.

Dr. McClenahan has officially announced his intention of not seeking another term. The second seat up for grabs is being vacated by Ralph Haskins.

The 1970-71 budget totalled $1,956,817.93. Board members noted at Monday night's meeting that more than $100,000 had already been whittled from their proposal for the coming year in private sessions.

And it appears that the budget may come to a vote June 9 without a teachers' contract. Informed sources at the school noted that an extended bargaining session to be held this afternoon will probably end in an impasse.

It was reported that the board is seeking a two-year contract again with only salaries re-negotiable and is seeking to bargain with teachers individually instead of collectively.

In other board business this week, a ski club for 1971-72 was approved. It had been requested this past winter.

A new teacher, Mary Ann Flannery, was appointed as substitute for one year for the first grade to replace Mrs. Margaret Groves.

Summer in the Cities

America's cities are in an explosive mood. Sol M. Linowitz, chairman of the board of the Urban Coalition, said that America's cities are in "a more frightingly explosive mood" now than they were in the summer of 1967 and 1968—years of great violence.

Linowitz offered no remedy that might prevent the explosion. Nor did Senator Fred R. Harris, co-chairman of the Kerner Commission on civil disorders, which just toured major American cities. Nor did Rep. John Conyers of Detroit, one of the cities that burned in 1967. All three were rather fatalistic about it.

Several factors cited by Linowitz for his appraisal darken the picture, while not solving it. He noted that the unemployment rate is at its highest level in nine years. Veterans are returning from Vietnam and finding no jobs. Several states have cut welfare payments and other social benefits. Poor people's hopes have been raised but left unsatisfied with tangible help. And so on and so on.

Unemployment continues to rise along with wages and prices. There is no inclination on the part of employed workers to exercise self-restraint so that employers can afford to hire more workers, businessmen can hold down prices, and inflation can reduce. Until such economic statesmanship is practiced, the causes of unemployment and inflation, the twin evils of the day, cannot subside.

Returning veterans could be enlisted to stand by to put out the fires before they erupt. The nation cannot take another explosive summer.

Teller on Soviet Power

Nuclear physicist Edward Teller, often called "the father of the hydrogen bomb," warns that the Russians are pulling ahead so fast, they are surpassing the United States in air defense, missile defense and civil defense. He urged a policy of full disclosure of Russian military preparedness to rally support behind this country's efforts to maintain a power balance.

Teller, professor-at-large of physics at the University of California, spoke at a conference sponsored by the National Committee to Unite America, a new non-partisan group formed to combat "the worst elements of totalitarianism" which are corroding the nation's moral standards, institutions and common purpose. It is the kind of group that has long been needed to offset the elements in American society that have lowered the nation's standards and helped make it "a second-class power" as Teller said it is rapidly coming to be.

The reason for our second class status, Teller believes, is that the government has not kept the public informed of Russia's preparedness. "We are keeping the Russian secrets even more jealously than we are keeping our own," he said. "As a result the American people are not properly informed of the dangers we face."

Many newspapers, this one among them, have tried to warn of these dangers. But the so-called peace sector, in and out of Congress, has belittled the danger, even as many did 33 years ago when Hitler's preparations were disdained until he blitzed Poland and the Low Countries and occupied France. We will not have time to make up for our unpreparedness in this nuclear age. We must heed the voice of reason and patriotism now.

So they're quitting cigarette smoking because it is dangerous? Buyers of tobacco leaf don't seem to have heard of this. Almost at the one-third point in the 54-day selling period, they have bid Maryland tobacco up to record prices in the 1971 auction sales.

Very few men today are willing to climb high flagpoles or clock towers and it is becoming an extinct calling. Louis Young, who kept doing the perilous ascents until he was 88, has just died at 101. As a boy, he "sailed before the mast" and climbed the tall ones, made friends with the winds and the stars. His reach was toward heaven.

"Don't Me an' My Buddy Make a Great Team?"

David Lawrence Says
Government at All Levels Struggle to Meet Problems

WASHINGTON — Government — federal, state and local — is struggling to meet the problems of the nation. Our institutions are being re-examined to remedy defects. Elliot Richardson, Secretary of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, made a speech the other day explaining the fundamental principles involved in our whole system, and he sees an opportunity for constructive readjustments. He said:

"What is in the national interest is a federal government, not a national government alone — a tripod of national, state, and local governments for balance; a tripod whose feet would occupy the smallest area of intrusion in our private lives. A government that stands on one leg, must have a very, very large foot. By giving states and localities additional financial support, and by joining authority to the responsibility they have for their affairs, we should enable state and local governments to reform and regenerate themselves."

But, lest it be misunderstood that Secretary Richardson favors that the national government play no important role, he added:

"I have used the image of a tripod, and the national government — to coin a phrase — has a leg to stand on. Even in general revenue sharing, provisions convey even more the determination to stimulate certain state actions, as in the requirement to maintain comparability of funding for the education of the disadvantaged."

The Secretary pointed out that there have been suggestions advocating a centralized system for health programs "devised, ruled and regimented by the national government." But he thinks this is too large a task for the federal government to administer and that it would lead to inefficiency.

But as government grows larger and more money is needed to finance all divisions — federal, state and local — the economic structure of the country must be strong and healthy. Mr. Richardson did not deal with this phase in his speech, but it is becoming more and more evident every day that, with the increase of population, there must be jobs created to give more citizens a chance to earn a livelihood.

The problem has international aspects. We are involved in a world of sharp competition in which peoples naturally buy goods that are offered at the lowest prices. The United States has lost out on many a product in world markets. Indeed, customers at home have bought imported goods, and American firms — such as some shoe manufacturers, for example — have had to close down.

No policies can be adopted for internal application without thought of the effect on the employment factors in today's business operations. Similarly, many companies today are being forced to the wall by high costs of production due to wage scales beyond their ability to absorb and meet price competition.

The conclusion which is inevitably reached is that the national economy cannot be revenue-producing, either for tax receipts or wage increases, as long as there is no national regulation.

Fear of the labor-union vote has prevented the administration from tackling the problem of wage and price control, although even the democratic policy council has just come out in favor of wage and price restraints being imposed by government.

The unemployment rate is rising and, unless it starts to go down, there could be more difficulties for business as consumer spending may diminish further. The administration is hoping that economic recovery will have started by early 1972 at least and that the whole situation will have changed for the better by the time the national political conventions are held in the middle of next year. But signs of such a shift are as yet slight. Indeed, there are scant reports concerning the return of profits to corporations which have been operating in the red.

The big issue of 1971 is the high cost of production in almost every industry. It is dropping in a few instances, but labor costs are by no means being reduced by any substantial percentage.

Another factor just introduced is the higher postal rates imposed by the government's own corporation which will increase the operating expenses of many businesses dependent on mail circularization or on mail delivery. The feeling is one of discouragement that, at a time of already unprecedentedly high production costs, the government itself indirectly adds an extra burden on companies which now must spend huge sums to deliver their products by mail.

OLD STORIES . . . NEW TWISTS

There are no new plots. All have been used and abused. The sobs of the young wife who fell in love with her husband's best friend can be found in the Old Testament. The grim, hard-working rancher in the Western movie who has one good son and one gun slinger is a reenactment of Cain and Abel.

Sadly, there are but a few good Western plots: the fight for water rights; the poor sod busters versus the rich rancher; the bad man who takes over the town and pins a star on the wrong sheriff; cattle rustling; the sweet but cowardly boy who finally faces up to the fastest gun in the West; the sneaky Indians waiting behind the rocks at the arroyo.

In novels there is the guy who spends 600 pages trying to find his identity; there is the girl who says no to the right guy; the girl who says yes to the wrong guy; the girl who says yes to everybody. Then too, there is the husband who sneaks out of the corral at night (working); the one who fights the office siren but finally succumbs; the good wife who buffs her fingernails and thinks there must be more to marriage than this.

Gangsters come in all sizes: there is the good boy who buys a cannon in a hockshop because his poor old mother is starving (he gets 20 to life for a crime he didn't commit); the ex-soldier who has learned how to kill but not how to live; the tough guy who clutches a frail (that's a girl) and says, "Let's live a little and take the bank in Wet Moccasin, Oklahoma." Then there is the vendetta between brothers, and the Mafia lieutenant who kills 20 people and cries when his mother kisses his forehead on his birthday.

In mysteries, everybody gets killed one by one, except one. It is (1) the butler, who is in reality Lord Exchequer; (2) the mad scientist who grows orchids which eat babies; (3) dear old Aunt Isabel, who spends her time tatting in a rocking chair and burying relatives in the cellar; (4) the sweet boy from the next farm who munches apples, does errands cheerfully, says: "Yup" and is a murderous fiend because he once saw his old man taking a shower.

Some stories are pointless unless they contain peril. This is true of sea stories; planes which whisk over the ocean with each passenger having a separate problem, all of which are going to seem trivial when that number four engine catches fire; automobile racing in which the kid who has never won the "Indie 500" has developed double vision because of a brain tumor; the little girl playing in the cellar with her doll as the insane janitor comes down to stoke the furnace, and so forth.

All are plagiarized and replagiarized. Sometimes, helpful readers send story plots to me and I view them with suspicion. Once in awhile, I use one. Instantaneously, dozens of letters come from readers who saw it in the Reader's Digest 12 years ago, or in True Story 20 years ago.

Speaking of magazines, one once used a story called The Revealing Kiss. They were sued blind. They used the name of a well-known man, made him a heel who got a high-school girl pregnant. The author made so many mistakes that the editors suspected that he must have sobered up. The girl had a real-life counterpart with the same name; she had a real-life older sister, Agatha, who drank. A man who got a high-school girl pregnant in real life also sued. Total: $400,000.

A West Coast writer penned a story about two men in a hospital room. One is in bed at a window; one is back against a wall. The one at the window tells his roommate what is going on in the world outside. The trees are green, a park is across the street, a uniformed maid wheels a baby carriage; a cop talks to the nurse every day. Romance develops.

The patient at the window requires heart pills. Doctors beg the man against the wall to give him one white pill if he is in pain at night. The pain hits the man at 4 a.m. The one against the wall lies in bed. He wants that window bed. In the morning, his pal is dead.

The one who hasn't got the window is wheeled over. He looks out for the first time. All he sees is another hospital wall. His dead friend had made up the story of trees, park, cop and maid.

I was an editor at Collier's when we bought it as a Short-Short story. We paid $500. Ten days later, I received a letter from the West Coast writer with a clipping enclosed. It was old and yellowed. Same story. I wrote back and asked how much he wanted to be paid for the theft of his little gem.

"I can't honestly give you a figure right now, "he wrote back. "First I have to remember where I stole it from;"

What you have just read, by the way, constitutes a new plot . . .

Jack Anderson Says
Pentagon General and Pals Arrested for Being Drunk

WASHINGTON — A top Pentagon general and three high-ranking pals were dumped unceremoniously in jail the other day after being busted on public drunkenness charges outside a small-town Tennessee motel at 5:30 in the morning.

The authorities charged that the four warriors not only were in an advanced stage of inebriation but were still nipping when the police arrived.

Although the brass hats protested their innocence vigorously, the police hauled them down to the county sheriff's office, booked them and put them in the pokey.

The indignity of it! Here were Maj. Gen. I. G. Brown, director of the Air National Guard, Brig. Gen. James Hartinger, a bigwig in the North American Air Defense Command, plus a colonel and a captain, all locked up in the same cell.

All four were charged with a violation of the Alcoa, Tenn., city ordinance forbidding public drunkenness and drinking in public. They remained behind bars for about two hours until the sheriff came to work and decided to release them without bail.

Gen. Brown told us he had been in Alcoa to attend the graduation ceremony of an Air Force training school at nearby Taylor-McGhee Air Base.

He acknowledged that two of his friends were drinking beer when the police arrived but denied that any of them were drunk. He said they had just about finished breakfast after several hours of sleep.

The general said that their sobriety had been recognized by the deputy sherriff on duty at the jailhouse and that the deputy had executed an affidavit declaring the general and his companions were not drunk.

General Brown further stated that the charges were fraudulent and that he expected to prove this in court. He added that the jail cell was large enough so that he and his friends were not uncomfortable.

Pentagon Peephole

The word has come down from the highest Pentagon levels to find the culprits who have been leaking us information on some of the military's most secret (and most embarrassing) adventures.

Investigators have been busy grilling suspects behind the doors of room 3E993 at the Pentagon.

The gumshoes are most concerned about a series of columns we wrote which they believe were based on secret communications intended for the "eyes only" of such bigwigs as President Nixon's foreign policy sage, Henry Kissinger, and the Joint Chiefs' chairman, Adm. Thomas Moorer.

The brass hats are particularly redfaced about our recent report that they have been intercepting South Vietnamese President Thieu's private communications, which are decoded by the National Security Agency and passed on to the White House and other agencies. The messages are identified by code name "Gout."

The U.S. is able to pick them up because South Vietnam uses American-made code machines, and U.S. intelligence experts are familiar with their construction and wiring.

The military brass also are upset over our discovery that Admiral Moorer received a "Flash" message after the abortive Son Tay prisoner rescue mission which said the North Vietnamese prison compound had not been occupied for three months.

The Pentagon would also like to know how we learned that Air Force planes had been seeding the clouds over the Ho Chi Minh trail network to make the monsoon seasons even rainier. This novel means of flooding the enemy supply line is known as operation "Intermediary-Campatriot."

Suspects have also been questioned about our revelation that, long before the invasion of Laos, U.S. Special Forces and South Vietnamese Ranger teams had been making frequent forays into Laos in an operation known by the code name, "Prairie Fire."

Lax Security

Actually, the Pentagon shouldn't be surprised that some secrets are getting out. For some of the highest officials have become extremely sloppy about security.

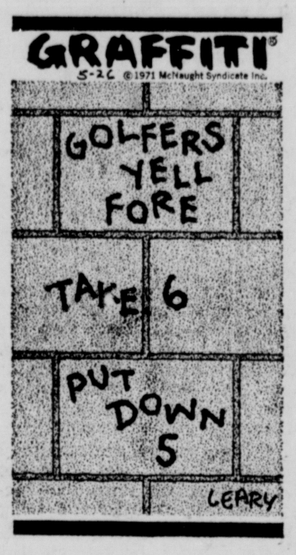

Although he vigorously denied it, insiders say Paul Kearney, assistant to Joint Chiefs' Chairman Moorer, has sometimes phoned the Defense Intelligence Agency communications center on unsecured phone lines and had top-secret information read to him.

Men on duty in the communications center have reminded him that he was using an unsecured line. But he has dismissed their warnings, say insiders, with such comments as, "We aren't worried about that."

Also, admirals and generals receive telphone calls at home from the Defense Intelligence Agency when an important secret message has come in for them after hours. Rather than go to the Pentagon, the lazy brass frequently have the sensitive message read to them.

Another possible source of leaks is the haphazard way in which copies of top-secret messages are finally taken away to be burned. They are put in large, candy-striped bags which may remain in a communications center for weeks until they are filled.

The most sensitive ones are kept in separate bags marked "eyes only." Even these sometimes lie about in places where an unauthorized employee might stop and help himself to a handful of military secrets.

Common Cause Applies People Power Against Vietnam War

By TOM TIEDE

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — The armies can't do it. The members of Congress can't end the battle in Vietnam.

But maybe The People can.

The People in this case are the 145,000 members of the uncommonly feisty citizen's lobby, Common Cause. Only nine months old, the lobby has entered the fight against Vietnam leading with its nose.

Using pressure tactics unusual even in Washington, the organization has put together what publicist Tom Matthews calls 'the greatest lobby package of all time." Each Cause member has been given a thick portfolio of the fight plan, which has as its focal point a "Dear Colleague" letter written by six congressmen, three Democrats and three Republicans. The letter, hinting of congressional debate to come, urges the House delegation to call for war's end by the new year — and to do so on the record by signing the letter for all the nation to witness.

By itself, the letter would normally elicit little response. But some 800 Common Cause volunteers have been conducting a telephone campaign to force the response. Working at several points in the nation, concentrating on the constitutents of moderate ("convincable") lawmakers, the volunteers say that upward of 90 per cent of the people called are willing to wire or write their representatives.

The result so far has been "splendid." Matthews says. "We need 218 congressional signatures for a majority in the House. And we've already got half that."

If the fight is won, assuredly, it will not only be the biggest but the only victory for Common Cause. Though the group has entered a number of Washington battles in its short life (the invasion of Laos, election spending, reform of the seniority system in Congress) it has not only not won, but hardly gotten into the real action. The organization as yet is just not strong enough to field much of a team. And the image of citizens' lobby groups — they come noisly and go quietly — is certainly not one to cause much trembling inside Washington's places of power.

Yet the hope at CC is the Big Apple, the war, can be picked. And nothing would be of more satisfaction to the organization's chairman, the protean, urbane, 58-year-old John Gardner. Not only would a CC victory bring an end to "this war we are half in and half out of," he says, but it would serve dramatic evidence that The Silent Majority is dead and The People have replaced it.

To some extent, Gardner (former HEW secretary) has already proven the latter despite early cynicism that his group would attract "only malcontent Eastern liberals," the facts are otherwise. Some 5,000 new members (at $15 a head) join weekly, with 65 per cent coming from the West, Midwest and South. "I don't know exactly what kind of people we're getting," Gardner says, "but from meetings I've attended I'd say a good variety of them. Young and old, liberals and conservatives."

One thing for sure, Gardner adds, the majority of members are "very much concerned." They see things happening, can't control them, and are angry. Like so many citizens today, they are seeking a way to "do something" — about poverty, about government, about war, about quality environment. "We all have the feeling we want to complain to the manager," says Gardner, and it is the goal of Common Cause, one of them, to make certain that the manager is listening.

In the case of Vietnam, Gardner believes, the manager has been deaf. "I'm not blaming anybody for this thing, but it's obvious that nobody has been listening to what the people have been saying." He refers to a sheet of paper on his desk. "Now look at the polls — not just one, but one right after another. In January, Gallup reported 73 per cent of Americans want the troops home this year. In February, a majority felt Laos would lengthen not shorten the war. Again in February, seven of 10 people said they felt the government wasn't being honest about the war. This is what the people are saying. They want out of this war now."

Thus it is that Common Cause, flat out, full bore, is seeking victory for The People. And never mind the bruises. Some say the pressure tactics are wrong, some say Congress should not be intimidated or the President forced into decisions — but Gardner and his citizen's lobby feel Vietnam is an idea whose time has gone.

And so: "Hello, Mrs. White, this is Geri Vought calling from Common Cause..."

"Now, take care of your new knapsack. You'll need it when you're older, for going around the country from demonstration to demonstration!"

Wassaic State School

The following letter written by Theodore A. Paulson, R.N., supervisor of the Hospital, Eves., Wassaic State School, has been forwarded to Dr. G. Etling, director of the Wassaic institution:

I wanted to let you know that I think that there is still hope that we might keep sick bay open. As you said at a recent staff meeting, the decision to close sick bay has come from Albany and you hoped you would not be considered the villain in this case. I am sure that nobody would blame you for doing what you are ordered to do by persons in Albany and I hope you do not mind if I pursue this business further.

A description of my job title (Supervising Nurse, Psychiatric) says that I am responsible "for working with a staff of other disciplines" (other professionals, doctors, psychologists, speech therapists and others I presume) to improve programs of patient care and to assess the therapeutic environment.

With this purpose in mind I want to urge the Department of Mental Hygiene to reverse its decision to take away the medical services now provided to its employes (i.e. Sick Bay, medications, X-rays, etc.) on the grounds that:

The employes are continually asked to be generous and humanitarian in their relationship with the resident (patients) at Wassaic State School and it is not humanly possible for them to be generous if the Department itself is acting in a capricious and tight-fisted manner.

The "other disciplines" were present and they did not say anything other than to ask a few questions about the implementation of this new policy but I am sure that if free discussions were encouraged a variety of valid opinions would emerge, all of which are vital to the development of good working relationships between us all.

It should be recognized that the employes spend up to 40 per cent of their waking hours at Wassaic State School (as well as the other institutions) and that Department policies profoundly affect their lives, that they cannot have affection for the Department or the institution for which they work if decisions are being made by men in remote places who do not regard their very real needs, that they will quite naturally resent decisions that are made to their detriment by seemingly uncaring Department officers whom they never see, that this resentment threatens the patients/residents with harsh and unnecessarily abusive reactions in the same manner that chickens are subject to a pecking order.

Most employes in this institution (professional and otherwise) are thinking persons and they will perform better if their creative capacity to think of new and improved ways of doing things is encouraged.

The Department of Mental Hygiene and the institution can be run either on the basis of administrative decree coming from persons who are designated authorities because of the law (as is found in the case of this new policy coming from Albany) or the institution can function as a social organism composed of people who have gained respect for each other through the tolerant solicitation of their mutual points of view, decisions evolving through understanding and honest expressions of affection.

I am seeking then an atmosphere in the state institutions which is a little less authoritarian, that is run by people with less of a "boss" image, and which depends a whole lot more on good relationships between people to successfully achieve its stated goals, which would in fact promote good relationships as a primary and most essential goal in itself, relationships between all people, both the employes and the residents/patients, in which love, joy and happiness prevail. This is a most important ingredient of good mental hygiene. It is sad to say that in the institutions run by the Department of Mental Hygiene, little joy and happiness exists, people are separated as to their status (ward employe, administrator, patient or resident) and the relationships between them are, too often, very remote.

I am seeking a reversal of the Department's decision to withdraw the services of Employe's Sick Bay and related medical facilities:

Because it was arbitrarily imposed by people in remote places (apparently without consulting even your opinion), without considering its full ramifications.

Because it further separates the "bosses" from those whom they direct.

Because it gives the state institutions the image of not caring about the welfare of its employes, making it therefore impossible (or at least difficult) for the employes to have a real caring about their responsibilities.

Because I believe that patient care will suffer seriously if we continue in this direction.

Traditionally the institutions have been rigidly controlled at the top, controlled that is from Albany, and that rigidity has become characteristic of them, all the way down to the ward level. Rigid controls imposed by the force of law do not create a happy social environment and are, at best, only moderately effective in imposing a kind of social order, a stilted and spiritless atmosphere. We should be moving in a new direction. We should be trying to create a family type atmosphere in which joy and just plain having fun together are primary goals. This is mental hygiene of the highest sort.

The Department of Mental Hygiene should be the forerunner in the development of new techniques in human relations, in creating a social environment in which people can care about each other.

That's what its all about—patient care. But we have to care about employes too.

Yours very truly,
Theodore A. Paulson, R.N.

Tribute to Wilson

Editor, The Freeman:

Woodstock Township Taxpayers Association is saddened by the passing of former Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson, who, from its taxpayer's viewpoint, was a most affable, courteous and effective legislator, readily accessible to his Woodstock constituents in matters of consequence.

Among his many achievements, WTTA considers as outstanding his sponsorship in the Assembly of Section 476 of the Real Property Tax Law, enacted in 1966. This law granted the 50 per cent-of-assessed valuation tax-exemption for persons over 65 to those whose income did not exceed $3,000 per year. Having fought hard for a higher income-ceiling for his exemption, he wisely concluded to "take what one could get" at that time and reserve for the future the amendments to the "vague" new law which he intended to propose. He explained his dissatisfaction with the deficiencies of the new law at the 1966 Annual Meeting of WTTA. The law has since been amended to allow the 50 per cent exemption to persons whose income does not exceed $5,000 per year.

In October 1964, as a candidate for reelection, Assemblyman Wilson was the first public official in Ulster County to state publicly his agreement with the objective of WTTA to eliminate totally, or at least partially, the direct real property tax on homeowners for public school purposes, and to substitute the income tax or other equitable taxation to raise the funds for the public school system. But at the same time he frankly cautioned that "one with legislative responsibilities must reach honest conclusions after considering all aspects of the problem." Early in the winter of 1965, on a Saturday afternoon, he sat down with the board of directors of WTTA at a special meeting in Woodstock, heard their views on relief of homeowners from the double taxation they suffered (income tax and real property tax) for public school support, and discussed at length the fiscal complexities involved for the State to effect the kind of tax-relief proposed by WTTA.

Assemblyman Wilson's vigorous efforts for the creation of a State Park at Wittenberg had the publicly expressed approval of WTTA, which saw no objection to the project merely because there would be some loss of local-property-tax-base. WTTA felt that the Township of Woodstock would benefit in general and homeowners in particular might experience higher sale-values for their properties after the park was in operation. It was a very appropriate and happy act of the State Legislature to consummate the endeavors of this tax-conscious legislator by establishing the park in the name of Kenneth L. Wilson.

Fluoridation Bill

Editor, The Freeman:

Isn't it ironic that, while our young people are working hard to clean up the environment, legislators in Albany are pushing through a compulsory fluoridation bill. This is Bill No. 7688 — now in the Assembly.

Every day we are being exposed to toxic doses of this poluant from air, pesticides, contaminated food, canned food, bottled drinks, etc., without having it dumped into our water supply.

It is time we told our elected representatives what we want, instead of having things pushed down our throats. Write your Assemblyman, Senator, Governor, also, Chairman of the Assembly Health Committee, Chairman of the Rules Committee and members of the Committee on Rules, in protest.

Very truly yours,
ANNA E. WITTHOFT

Save the Trees

Editor, The Freeman:

I have been informed by a resident of Albany Avenue, Kingston, that the Department of Transportation of Poughkeepsie is planning to widen Albany Avenue. This same resident called the Mayor of Kingston and was told that he knew nothing about it. She also called various other officials who were unaware of this plan. Anyone who has ever traveled this street would notice the beautiful maple trees that shade the street. If the road is widened, it would mean the destruction of these beautiful trees, as well as the new ones that were recently planted by the City Beautification program. I appeal and address this letter to the people who care and who will do something to keep our trees from being doomed to destruction by so called progress.

Sincerely yours,

Sewage Disposal

Editor, The Freeman:

I attended the last Town Board meeting in Saugerties as a concerned citizen of this community. Mr. Schovel's opening remarks concerned the criticisms aimed at the appointed and elected officials of the Town.

I am totally against abusive or threatening phone calls to any elected or appointed official, or their families. I am truly sorry that you have to contend with this.

Constructive criticism is another matter. Mr. Schovel, you asked the people who criticize to be man or woman enough to come to you face to face and tell you how they would do the job, so here goes.

Stop your political in-fighting and spend that much used energy on constructive solutions to this town's most serious problem, sewage disposal. Do everything within your power to educate the citizens on our most pressing need, sanitary sewers. Aid this Civic Association in doing the job the Town should have done a long time ago. Our health is at stake.

Keep a close watch on that stream running under 9W. Make sure engineers specifications are followed to the letter. If the job isn't done right and our already poor drainage worsens, are you going to tell us again that your hands were tied? I've consulted with an Attorney in the Dept. of Environmental Conservation, Albany, and found that there is something you can do to prevent this. Do so, if the need arises!

You, Republican Town Board members have the courage of your convictions and think for yourselves; Mr. Rinaldi, you gave this last meeting an aura of a three ring circus. Enjoy yourself, it's later than you think!

Your observant taxpayer,

Thirteen Star Flag

Editor, The Freeman:

Reading TEMPO as I always do each Saturday and noting the Thirteen Star Flag flying at the New Windsor Cantonment, brings to memory an incident which occurred there May 6, 1967 when it was the privilege of this writer to dedicate a Flag presented by the Past Regents' Club, Hudson Valley Council, Daughters of the American Revolution.

After viewing the film which portrays the stay of Washington and his troops there following the Revolution, the possibility of mutiny, Colonel Todd asked me to stand on a slightly raised platform at one end of the room with a lectern and three chairs, my Chaplain Mrs. William Owens on my right, he on my left. As I was about to dedicate the Flag, Colonel Todd whispered in my ear, "Mrs. Porter, you are standing on sacred ground." I said, "What is it, Colonel?" He whispered, "This is where George Washington addressed his troops."

My eyes filled with tears, I could barely compose myself, but I did dedicate that Flag, my Chaplain blessed it, it was raised over the building, a Color Guard of young boys in Colonial costume and the DAR members gave the Pledge of Allegiance.

That Flag as you will note has thirteen stars arranged horizontally; I ordered it especially as directed by Colonel Todd (West Pointer).

May I say in conclusion, that I have stood on Concord Bridge, witnessed retreat at West Point and many other places in this country, belong to many patriotic and lineage organizations, but that incident will remain fixed in my memory as the high point of my life.

(Mrs. Adam H. Porter)

Betty Crocker Coupons

Editor, The Freeman:

Thanks to the response of numerous area residents the Betty Crocker Coupon collection for dialysis equipment has been successful in securing enough coupon points to pay for one kidney machine to be based at Horton Memorial Hospital in Middletown, N.Y.

Plans completed a month ago in regard to Horton Memorial's Dialysis Unit call for an expansion, doubling the present capacity and introducing home dialysis training facilities. Since General Mills, Inc., has allotted an extension until Dec. 31 on coupon collections for lifesaving devices, we will continue collection for the remainder of this year.

The goal will be set at obtaining three kidney machines. There are two drives in progress. One based in Orange County, sponsored by the Middletown Lions Club and this Ulster County based drive, sponsored by the Kerhonkson Lions Club. The Orange county drive will soon have the second machine paid for, leaving only 400,000 coupons to round up as payment on the third dialysis.

Thank you to everyone who has contributed to this project. Donations have been received from over 200 communities of New York State, as well as 18 states. The churches, schools, and organizations that have been aiding this endeavor have been a tremendous help.

We are very grateful for the wonderful response we have received.

Sincerely,
DIANE CODDINGTON

Animals Are Actors In Movie

COLOMBO, Ceylon (AP) — When John Weinhart orders his movie stars around, it takes more than the standard: "Quiet on the set." One of them, for example, almost bit his hand off.

His actors are leopards, making a feature film for Walt Disney Studios in the Ceylon jungles.

"You just have to understand leopards," says Weinhart, 28, an Austrian-born Californian with 10 years in the animal business. "When they get to know you, you're just like another leopard to them."

Then he rattled off a few words of Leopard to illustrate his point.

Weinhart was hired when other handlers refused to work with black leopards, a production spokesman said.

"They said it couldn't be done," Weinhart added.

He not only is doing it, but he is doing it without the standard camera cages used to protect the staff when filming wild animals.

"They're too bulky . . . they just get in the way," said Weinhart, with an agreeing nod from his director, whose head was once stepped on by a leaping leopard. "So far we've been lucky."

In the film, Weinhart's 10 spotted and black leopards—one at a time—chase off a herd of buffalos, terrify elephants, attack a man on a bicycle, fight each other to the death and wrestle with crocodiles.

Sometimes they don't like the script. Weinhart tried to hold one still when an elephant frightened it and in the confusion it bit a huge gash in his wrist.

"That was a stupid mistake," said Weinhart. But it was his first mishap in a decade of handling everything from Siberian tigers to apes.

He took the film job over another offer: wrestling a mammoth Bengal tiger seven nights a week in a Las Vegas club.

He has been at it a year here and now filming is delayed indefinitely by a major insurgency in Ceylon. He is waiting it out in Colombo while his leopards relax in the local zoo.

Weinhart's private zoo at Rialto, California,—Jungle Cat World—has dozens of rare animals from assorted tigers to a vulture.

He started collecting animals in his teens on trips to Mexico. First he brought back jaguars and cougars and then started importing animals from Asia and Africa.

His blonde wife, Carol, who he met while running a wild animal pet shop, handles the cats as well as he does.

Weinhart says he admires the old Clyde Beatty showman approach, with pistol and whip, but adds it is not necessary. You go along with the animal and read its moods, he says, explaining:

"They're just like dogs. You have to know how far you can react."

He prefers leopards and tigers to lions which he considers lazy and neither kingly nor beastly.

Despite obvious steel nerves, Weinhart is no daredevil. "I work with snakes, but never poisonous ones," he said. "It's not worth your life for something as dumb as a snake."

Ancient Island Civilized

INISHMORE, Aran Islands, Ireland, (AP) — Civilization is catching up with the Aran Islands—population 1,700 persons, 30 cars, some cattle and a former movie star.

Electric lights are on the way. There is talk of a big fish processing plant plus handicraft industries to cash in on the tourists. You can see a miniskirt or two in the village lanes, and a half dozen cottages boast television sets.

But the islanders still speak Gaelic among themselves, although they use English to strangers, and cherish a life style that hasn't changed much since the Middle Ages.

Inishmore, Inishman and Inisheer—the islands of Aran—are strung across the mouth of Galway Bay like flat rock chips flung from a giant hand. Miles of waist-high stone walls subdivide sheep pastures and vegetable farms. The natives solemnly say it was easier to build the walls than to throw all that stone into the sea.

About 2,000 tourists a year visit the islands, most on twice-a-week boats from Galway, 30 miles away. But stormy weather can interrupt the sea service for weeks at a time; so a light plane has started flying daily to a grass strip on Inishmore. The pilot sometimes has to chase the donkeys away before he takes off again.

The tourists buy Aran sweaters — hand knit to individual patterns, so the story goes, to help women identify the bodies of fishermen washed up on shore.

The visitors climb prehistoric stone ports, try on pampooties, the local rawhide shoes, and marvel at currachs, seagoing canvas dinghies so sensitive that "you've got to keep your tongue straight in your mouth to balance them."

The Rev. Timothy Moran is chairman of a cooperative being set up to modernize the islands. The first project is an electricity system, still being set up, to replace bottled-gas lights, oil lamps and a handful of private windmill generators.

"After 20 years of pressing, the islanders have got the government to spend $192,000 to put generating stations on the islands," Father Moran said. "We'll take care of the day-to-day operations ourselves."

"Sure, this is going to change the peaceful life on the islands," said Coley Hernon, 48, white-haired lifeboat coxswain and secretary of the cooperative. "But we're between the devil and the deep blue sea. Either we get industry or we face complete depopulation."

The population is steady now but the Arans have lost two-thirds of their people over the past 100 years—largely to Irish communities in America. Until industry arrives in a big way, Moran said, Aran men will go on "doing a little bit of an awful lot for a living." There are 60 fishermen, one doctor and three policemen.

The policemen spend more time taking the census and investigating insurance claims than fighting crime. The occasional Saturday night disturbance is cleared up before a magistrate who visits from time to time.

Some 200 children attend three primary schools and a vocational school. Teen-agers who want an academic education live in Galway and come home for vacations.

The islands have no hippies, no women's lib movement and —inhabitants say—no Protestants since the Irish threw out their British rulers 50 years ago. The two Aran priests are Roman Catholic.

A bank branch opens one day a week in Kilronan, an Inishmore village that also has a public library. You can buy groceries there but you go to Limerick or Galway for clothes, or else make them yourself.

When the cold mist swirls in off the Atlantic, you get warm over a pint of stout in O'Brien's bar, one of five Inishmore pubs. A photograph of the late President John F. Kennedy over the fireplace surveys the brown benches and tables.

BOCES Graduates Get Placement Aid

NEW PALTZ

Michael Aronica, Director of the Ulster BOCES Vocational Education program recently reviewed the Placement Report of the 1970 graduates. Of the 189 students who completed a vocational sequence at the BOCES, 44 went on to advanced training, eight entered the armed forces, 131 were unemployed, and 144 students were employed. Approximately 86 per cent of the eligible graduates found gainful employment in the area.

Under the direction of John Fiore, Placement Counselor, all BOCES vocational students are interviewed and assisted in finding work upon graduation. Fiore visits business and industry in the area and attempts to match existing and planned openings with the students and their preparation.

Choosing a career is one of the most important decisions a person will make in his lifetime. Planning a career calls for an evaluation of an individual's abilities and interests and for knowledge of employment opportunities that will be favorable or not so favorable in the future.

The BOCES guidance staff works with the Guidance Departments in the local school districts in assisting students in their choice of careers. John O'Leary, BOCES Director of Guidance, visits local schools to meet with individuals and groups of students. Open houses and visitation days are also held at the various BOCES centers for Vocational Education.

Information on the employment picture of the future is made available to students. Sources such as The Occupational Outlook Handbook, and The Manpower Future in New York State are used to point out employment trends. Ulster BOCES sees its task as that of educating and training those who will be available for work and seeing that they find places where their skills and abilities can be effectively used.

Police Arrest 2 In Theft of Car And Accessories

KINGSTON — Two 17-year-old youths were arrested Tuesday afternoon by police on charges of criminal possession of stolen property third degree, during investigation of the reported theft of a car owned by James M. Traeger of 204 Fair Street.

Brian Leo Kelly, of 66 East Chester Street, and Paul F. Jaffer, 132 West O'Reilly Street, were scheduled for an appearance before City Judge Hubert A. Richter.

Traeger had reported his sedan had been stolen from the parking lot at the Park Diner Monday. Police were notified yesterday that the car was in an old quarry off Whiteport Road in the Town of Rosendale and it had been stripped of accessories.

Patrolmen Louis Sapp and Gerald Tierney went to Rosendale and reported later they found the two accused youths. Police said the wheels, transmission, carburetor, three spare tires and other parts had been removed from Traeger's vehicle and were in a car used by the pair.

The two youths were taken to police headquarters and booked.

Miss Teenage Well Again After Candy Incident

OMAHA, Neb. (UPI)—It was an innocent-looking piece of candy and Marilyn Cleveland, 17, didn't give it a second thought as she popped it into her mouth while preparing to leave for school.

But several hours later Marilyn, the 1970 Miss Teen-Age Nebraska, woke up to find herself in a hospital room.

That was the morning of May 11. Marilyn returned to school for the first time this week after "freaking out" on the chocolate which she and her family believe was laced with LSD or some other hallucinogen.

Marilyn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Cleveland, recalls she was changing purses the morning she found the candy. "I have a sweet tooth," she said, "so I ate it and thought no more about it." She then began to feel strange while driving to school.

Mind Went Blank

"All the cars looked like little colored strings as they passed by," she said. "After that, my mind just went blank until I got to school."

"I then remember getting terribly frustrated while trying to get my locker open, and some friends came over and helped me," she said.

"They thought I was sick or drunk or had food poisoning—they just didn't know what to think," she said.

The friends took her out of school and gave her bread and tomato juice.

"I remember seeing a great big tomato coming at me—all kinds of weird things like that. It was really scary.

Strange Effects

"Then I woke up at Clarkson (hospital)," she said.

Marilyn spent two and a half days in the hospital as "really a bummer. A lot of times people's faces looked deformed, and outside the window everything looked really different.

"I wouldn't want to ever go through it again."

She spent a week and a half resting at home and trying to keep up with her classwork before returning to school but says she still suffers strange effects.

"When I read, my eyes all of a sudden will just stop and read backwards," she said.

Man Is Cleared Of Murder

MONTICELLO, N. Y. (AP) — A Monticello man has been cleared of a murder charge in the May 3 shooting of his 11-year-old niece.

Charge Teenager In Explosion, Queens Arson

NEW YORK (UPI) — A 17-year-old high school student has been charged with murder and arson in connection with a fire and gas explosion in a Queens apartment building. One fireman was killed in the blast.

Police and Chief Fire Marshal Edwin Sheppard said the youth, Frank Rodriguez, admitted setting the fire. They said Rodriguez, who lives with his aunt, told them he went to the basement of the building to smoke a cigarette and threw a lighted match into a stack of quilts he took from a nearby storage room.

A spokesman for the fire department said Rodriguez turned in the fire alarm and watched from across the street as firemen arrived. When the building exploded, killing Walter J. Bozenko and injuring scores of persons, the 10th-grade youth went to the assistance of the injured, the spokesman said.

Rodriguez came to the United States a year and a half ago from Puerto Rico, where his parents still live.

Police Seek Man In Ellenville Burglary Probe

ELLENVILLE — While investigating a complaint that an unidentified man was on a roof of a building at 91 Center Street, this village, shortly before 9:30 p. m. Tuesday, police learned that the apartment of Gertrude Brown of that address had been entered.

Police said that Edward Garay, 41, who was in the apartment, reportedly was assaulted by the unidentified man, who disappeared and is being sought for questioning. Authorities reported that Garay was injured and he told police he would seek medical attention.

The man sought by authorities was described as about 5 feet 7 inches tall, weighing about 140 pounds. He is believed to have been wearing a black leather jacket.

Kingston to Pay $223,250 Share On Retirement

KINGSTON — The City of Kingston will pay a total of $23,250 toward retirement benefits for its more than 300 employes this year, compared to $205,963 in 1970.

The announcement of pension fund payments for all the cities in the state, with the exclusion of New York City, was made by State Comptroller Arthur Levitt.

The $223,250 figure for the city is based on salaries from April 1, 1969 to March 31, 1970. Of that amount, $105,725 will be paid into the police and firemen's retirement fund while $117,525 will be paid into the fund for the rest of city employes, including workers at the city lab, Department of Public Works and Recreation Department and city hall employes.

The city pays 13.6 per cent toward the uniformed forces' retirement and 12.8 per cent toward the other employes' retirements. The city picks up slightly more than four per cent of the employes' share under the employe contributory plan.

Sims Clarifies Traffic Control for Greenkill

KINGSTON — Titus B. Sims, 13th Ward Alderman, today clarified earlier reports that he was proposing installation of a four-way flashing red traffic light at the intersection of Greenkill Avenue and Prospect Street.

Sims today said that his proposal calls for a flashing red light on Greenkill Avenue and a flashing yellow light on Prospect Street, giving motorists on Prospect Street the right of way.

Sims' proposal is designed to slow traffic on Greenkill Avenue, where nine separate accidents have occurred in the past four years. Pointing out that the Kingston Boys' Club and the Metropolitan Knothole League field are both located in that area, Sims' emphasized the urgent need for safer traffic conditions along Greenkill Avenue.

It was also noted that the flashing yellow light at Greenkill and Clinton Avenues will soon be changed to a flashing red light on Greenkill Avenue, further slowing traffic along that thoroughfare.

Sims, who stated that Acting Police Chief Julius Glassman is looking into the traffic situation in that area at his request, added that he will welcome suggestions "from anyone on other ways we can solve the problem."

The matter will be investigated by the traffic committee of the Common Council.

More Volunteers Are Needed To Aid Stone Ridge Youngster

STONE RIDGE — More volunteers are needed to help "pattern" two-year-old Kenny Brown of Stone Ridge, in an attempt to rescue him from the world of the brain damaged.

To date 225 persons have signed up for the program which calls for teams of five persons each to pattern the boy, a system whereby rehabilitation is possible by training the brain via the senses, according to Mrs. Barbara Kelly, a neighbor of Kenny's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Brown Jr.

Mrs. Kelly and Mrs. Dorothy Lunar and Mrs. Evelyn Russell, all of Stone Ridge, have been coordinating the program which actually got underway about two weeks ago, with persons coming to Kenny's home in Atwood throughout the day providing him with the physical therapy he needs every day of the week.

In spite of the huge response to the call for volunteers, there is still a need for more, according to Mrs. Kelly, who explained that during the many months it has taken to get the program underway a number of persons have dropped out or found securing transportation difficult. "We need more volunteers," she said, "because we are running low on substitutes and we have no back-up people."

All patterners and anyone else interested are invited to a meeting Tuesday, June 1 at 7:30 p.m. at the Marbletown School where a film on patterning will be shown and at which Darral Chapman of the New York Institute for Child Development will speak. Kenny's parents, too, will discuss their child's particular problem.

Anyone can learn to pattern, according to Mrs. Brown. Teenagers are doing it, busy housewives are doing it, grandfathers and grandmothers are doing it.

Volunteers are needed Monday through Sunday from 9:15 a.m. to 10:20 a.m.; from 11 a.m. to 12:10 p.m. and from 1:10 p.m. to 2:30 p.m.

Anyone interested may call Mrs. Kelly at 687-7960.

Local Firemen Quell Blaze at Jansen Avenue

KINGSTON

Firemen from Central Station and two other units responded to an alarm at 6:45 p.m. Tuesday after fire was reported in the basement of the two-story brick dwelling owned and occupied by Clayton E. Banks at 132 Janse Avenue.

On arrival firemen found fire and heavy smoke in the cellar and smoke on the first floor of the residence. Fire officials reported Banks was cleaning paint brushes using gasoline when the fumes were ignited by the flame of the nearby domestic gas hot water heater.

Pressurized water was used by firefighters to extinguish the blaze confined to the area of the water heater. Some articles on the floor and the paint brushes were burned.

Deputy Chief Glyn Southard was in charge of firemen from Engines 1 and 4, Truck 1 and Wicks Salvage Company. All units reported back in service at 7:10 p.m.

Free Screening Eye Clinic Set At Red Hook

RED HOOK

Parents of Red Hook preschool children, four and five years of age are urged to take advantage of a free visual screening clinic to be held June 1 from 9 a.m. to 12 noon at the Red Hook Methodist Church.

The clinic, sponsored by the Red Hook Lions Clubs and cosponsored by the Red Hook PTA, will be conducted by trained volunteers, who will screen the children for amblyopia, commonly referred to as "lazy eye."

Amblyopia is a disorder in which one eye sees sharply and the other sees poorly. Detected early in children it can be successfully corrected. However, if not discovered by the age of six it can threaten the permanent sight of one in 20 American children. Parents can help safeguard the vision of their young children by bringing them to this clinic.

Tranportation to the clinic will be provided, when needed by calling Mrs. Melvin Jones for information.

Chattanooga Calms, Troops Pulled Out

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — Police and National Guard troops pulled out of predominantly Negro neighborhoods torn by disturbances since Friday and turned them over to civilian black patrols Tuesday.

"It looks like we had less calls and the calls didn't seem to amount to anything," state Safety Commissioner Claude Armour said in reporting the situation was calming.

Armour announced earlier Tuesday that the unarmed black civilians would patrol the Negro areas, calling for police or Guardsmen only when assistance was needed.

Police said early today little sniper fire and two firebombings were reported Tuesday night. Twenty-six persons were arrested, most of them for violating a 7 p.m. curfew, police reported.

The trouble erupted Friday night when performer Wilson Pickett refused to appear at a scheduled concert, saying he was not paid in advance. The disorders spread with hit-and-run attacks by small groups Saturday and Sunday nights. Some blacks said they were angered by what they considered excessive arrests and verbal abuse. The Guard was called in Sunday night. A black man was fatally shot Monday night.

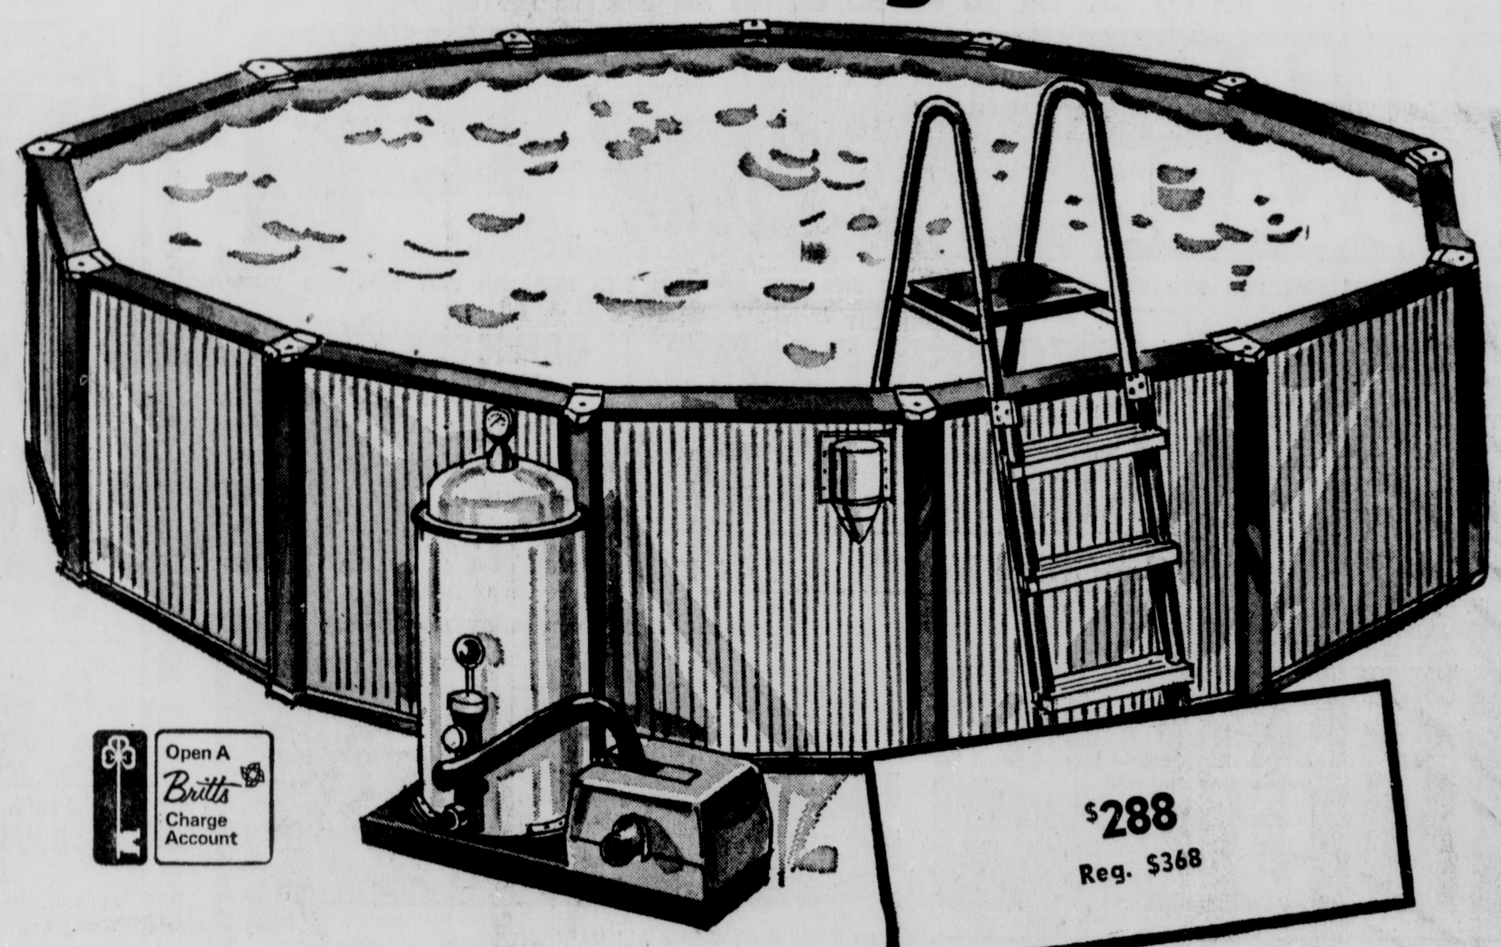

Armour would not say how many times police and Guardsmen assisted the black civilians Tuesday, but added that regular patrols did not enter a housing project area where Leon Anderson was fatally shot after allegedly hurling a brick at a police car.

State Aid Share

Antique Fair Planned By Historical Society

WOODSTOCK

The Historical Society of Woodstock announces that it will participate in the Antiques Fair to be held at Woodstock Playhouse grounds on Saturday.

At the invitation of Donald Rhoades, organizer of the Antiques Fair, the Historical Society will have a booth where material from the collection of the society will be displayed. Included in the exhibit will be some paintings and other art works by Woodstock artists, several pieces of glass made in Woodstock glass factories and other tools and models from Woodstock's past. The society also will have on sale several of its publications.

A feature of the exhibit will be slides of Woodstock during the last century contrasted with today. This show will be done using two slide projectors so that the old and new pictures can be directly compared. This show will be run periodically during the Fair hours of 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Those who are weary while at the Fair, may rest on the old school bench from the Zena School.

The participation of the Woodstock Historical Society in this Antiques Fair is unusual by bringing together those who are concerned with preserving records of the past and those who deal in objects from the past. This should be a natural combination which should be encouraged in such Antique Fairs in the future.

Membership applications for the Historical Society will be available at the booth, which will be manned by members of the society. Membership is open to anyone who is interested in the record of Woodstock's past. Activities of the society will be shown, such as field trips and the school awards program. The society looks forward to welcoming all who attend the Antiques Fair.

Library Fair Committees Listed

WOODSTOCK

The Woodstock Library Fair chairman and trustee, Adele Longendyke, has announced a full complement of committees and workers for this year's biggest and best ever Fair, 10 to 4:30, Saturday, July 31.

To start it off with verve the incomparable Chris Morris will handle the microphone as master of ceremonies over the public address system arranged by Rotron. Background music will be made possible by Edgar Villchur.

The Woodchuck Hollow Band led by Holly Cantine will again be heard and seen. At regular intervals the Great Expectations Committee headed by Carol Viglielmo and Ronnie Csonka will announce winners, with the grand prize announced at 4:30.

For general browsing there are handmade aprons by Hilda Citroen and Gertrude Robinson, china and glass handled by Mr. and Mrs. Fritz Werner and Mrs. F. Konde, jewelry under the supervision of Judy Sheldon, toys taken care of by Susan Cantine and Doty Trnka. All New Things by Pat Ito, and the art table which this year will feature paintings, drawings and prints by some local famous artists arranged and sold by Terry Fowler, Barbara Pratt, Terry Breitkopf and Fran Rosenblum.

Balloons and pony rides are under the supervision of Danielle Beeh. Pictures will be taken by Fritzi Striebel, Aileen Cramer and Carolyn Wilson in a setting painted by John Pike.

Kevin Sweeney's hot dog table will also have drinks available and goodies from the baked goods and salad department are under the direction of Betty Eichler and Ann Park. The book department is in charge of Dick Roberts, Nat Cowan and Reginald Wilson. The serious bargain hunter would already have found next winter's wardrobe or an outfit for next week's garden party among the clothes displayed by Adele Longendyke, Elizabeth Clough, Margaret Antenucci, Gloria Todd, Bee Doremus, Angelo Gregory. There is also furniture polished and sold by Monroe Longendyke, Adele Badalamenti and Phyllis Lane. Their department includes, besides furniture, a stunning variety from skis to coffee pots, or even a vase into which one could put the flowers you have bought from the Flower Booth set up by Woodstock Garden Club.

For the leg weary there is seating in the Town Hall during one of the entertainments arranged by Ruth Ingall's Creman for the day; and Lottie Kittner and Mari Bollman for ative Campers. There will be a morning and an afternoon program especially tuned to the young people.

All of this takes a bit of doing behind the scenes so recognition is due Michael Boyle and the Woodstock Jaycees for putting up and taking down tables; The National Bank of Orange and Ulster County for handling the cash; Margot Taylor for dispensing bandaids and manning the telephone in the library lending her presence as chairbuilding on Fair Day.

The Woodstock Library Fair collection center will be open from now on Monday, Wednesday and Saturday from 10 to 12 noon and from 1 to 4 p.m.

Date Changed

WOODSTOCK

A general membership meeting of Woodstock Artists Association will be held on June 11 at 8 p.m. instead of the date originally announced.

The agenda will include election of an executive board and amendments to the constitution, and other business.

Cotonou in Paris for Some Expatriates

COTONOU, Dahomey (AP) — The bored Englishman or American, keen for a bit of Gallic excitement and cuisine, flies of from Leeds or Cleveland to Paris.

Other Engishmen and Americans, passing expatriate existences in the former British colonies of Ghana and Nigeria, find Paris somewhat distant. They prefer Cotonou.

The comparison of somnolent, potholed Cotonou (population 120,000) with the Queen of Cities may seem far-fetched.

But after dining out in Accra or Lagos, in pseudo-French or Italian restaurants run by Lebanese or Indians who have never set foot in France or Italy, an Anglo-Saxon gourmet finds Cotonou's Hotel de la Plage a veritable three-star Michelin.

Sitting under the arching palm trees of the Plage's open air restaurant, with the Atlantic surf pounding 30 yards away, scores of weekending visitors devour artichokes (from Paris), Chateaubriand a' la Bernaise (from Paris), petitis pois and lettuce (from Paris) and a good French wine. Followed by a plate of cheeses and a bowl of apples and pears (also from Paris).

When it comes, the bill might as well be from Paris, too.

While the English decolonized Nigeria and Ghana and left them both to run their own affairs, the colonial French granted political independence too places like Dahomey, but then stayed on.

All over former French West Africa one finds Frenchmen running patisseries, hotels, sports and clothes shops, garages and grocery stores. In the Ivory Coast, which has a French population of 40,000, one finds French hairdressers, masseurs, prostitutes, bartenders and at least one French valet—that of President Feix Houphouet-Boigny.

With so many Frenchmen—and given the French beef that good eating is a serious undertaking—there is little wonder that an improbable place like Cotonou has become a watering spot for the hardy Anglo-Saxons.

Just as they fly in their lettuce and their cheeses, the 4,000-odd Frenchmen here insist on importing the latest fashions from the Metropolis.

Even the most leathery, malaria-ridden ancien colon, an expelled veteran of Algeria and Guinea, will be attired in tight-fitting, wide-belted pants and body-hugging shiny shirt. And his wife likewise, with appropriate feminine variations.

"But most of this stuff is for the Anglo-Saxons from Lagos,' observed on French boutique owner, who has been here for 20 years. "It's lucky you're here at the beginning of the weekend, by the end it's all sold.'

Most weekenders come by road from Lagos, usually a four-hour trip. (Ghana Anglo-Saxons sometimes prefer to stop in Cotonou's smaller twin, Lome, capital of the neighboring mini-nation of Togo.) The trip can be longer, much longer, if the Nigerian customs officials decide to be sticky—that is, greedy.

However, the ubiquitous West African petty bribe can usually expedite things at the border, transforming probing frowns into appreciative grins.

Once inside Cotonou, the Anglo-Saxon men begin signing traveler's cheques while the womenfolk make a beeline for the shops.

But, in truth, once one has had one's fill of the restaurants and the shops (loading up on certain canned goods not available in Lagos or Accra), there is not much to do in Cotonou.

The only architectural monument in town is the ghastly $3.5 million presidential palace, whose construction in 1963 helped provoke the first of Dahomey's five coups d'etat.

Three Years After Death of King, SCLC Changes Its Focus

ATLANTA, Ga., (AP) — Three years after the death of its charismatic organizer, Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., the Southern Christian Leadership Conference has changed its focus and diffused its leadership and programs.

As the conference's apostle of nonviolence, King was to many the institution itself.

When he was assassinated in April 1968, the loosely knit organization of numerous church affiliates without formal rank-and-file membership was forced to reshape itself.

The changes began soon. Attention shifted from the mass marches and demonstrations for basic human rights to less dramatic programs like housing projects and better jobs—work one SCLC official calls the "nitty gritty" of the civil rights effort.

SCLC has worked to register Negro voters and get jobs and help for blacks and other poor. It has adopted a militant stance against the war.

Sidney Cooks, named Wednesday to the organization's top administrative post of executive director, said he expects SCLC to step up its activities next year in voter registration and voter education.

Cooks said a primary target will be those persons between 18 and 21 years old who are now eligible to vote in federal elections. He said SCLC will not depart from its position of not recommending or endorsing candidates but will support or oppose positions that candidates take.

Cooks, 28, a Uniontown, Ala., native who joined SCLC as a field organizer in 1965, served as director of student affairs, administrative assistant to the president and director of public relations before being named to assume the duties previously performed by the Rev. Andrew Young.

Young, whose title was executive vice president, resigned from the SCLC last summer to make an unsuccessful race for Congress.

Cooks spoke of SCLC's successful efforts to help organize 500 steel workers in a Georgetown, S.C. plant. "It didn't make a lot of news, but that's one of the things we get into," he said.

SCLC played a role in planning the recent antiwar demonstrations in Washington. Its leaders said this was part of a plan which the Rev. Ralph David Abernathy, now head of SCLC, calls "a new militancy through which we can speak to youth."

SCLC recently led marches on Wall Street to emphasize their call to government and business to help cure unemployment among the poor.

At Wednesday's news conference announcing Cooks' appointment Abernathy said the SCLC faces a greater challenge now than ever before to "prove that nonviolence is meaningful and relevant."

Money for SCLC always is a problem—as it was when King was alive. Most of the money comes from mail appeals. Some funds come from foundations for programs like voter education, sometimes from labor unions, churches and staff speaking engagements.

Blue Patrol

Unnecessary, Annoying, Unusual Noises

An informational column designed and sponsored by the the Kingston Patrolmen's Association to enlighten the area citizens and make them more aware and alert to the laws and rules that are established to protect them, their families, and their property, in the hope of promoting understanding between the general public and the local law-enforcement agency's function in this modern-day society.

Unnecessary and unusual sounding or horns or signaling devices, loud, rash sounding mufflers on cars and cycles, squealing of tires, etc., are expressly defined as violations, subjecting offenders to summonses therefore, and, upon conviction, penalties of fines up to $100, imprisonment of up to six months, or BOTH.

Now that the "pleasant" season is rapidly coming upon our area, and the cycles, "road-rods" and sport cars are in their glory, exhibiting their "vigor," let not their operators lose track of the laws and ordinances governing their use upon the public highways, enacted for the benefit of ALL citizenry.

Those "hot" cars and cycles with the loud "pipes" are required to conform with the requirements specified that make their affixed mufflers effective in reducing their emissions to a level acceptable to the public; "gunning" the engines only causes attention to focus upon them and their inadequacies.

Squealing the tires as you "peel out" is also an attention-getter; sometimes the wrong kind, if there's a Police Officer within hearing distance, and they're extremely hard on your wear-expectancy of the tires, as well as being an unsafe practice, since the operator may lose control, temporarily.

Young drivers should be especially concerned with their actions, since they're already troubled with a high-rate insurance premium, plus their "probationary" period on their driver's license, and a summons could cause unnecessary grief.

Be concerned, also, with your vocal exercise in places where loud shouting, yelling, whistling, singing, or talking may cause disturbance to others who might be entitled to repose and quiet. There'll be more and more windows open, for longer periods of the day now, so be concerned; enjoy yourself and the beautiful world about you, but be willing to afford others the same courtesy, even though they may not share your views or interests.

Especially try to "keep the peace" between 11 p.m. and 7 a.m. when normal people are usually trying to sleep, even though you may be up and around; let's all try to make life a little less frustrating for others; give your neighbor a minute's thought, and please ask your guests, leaving from your party at 12 midnight, to "say goodnight before you step outdoors, and DON'T blow the horns as you leave the driveway!!"

County Has New Booklet On Mosquitoes

KINGSTON

A booklet on mosquitoes has been published by the Ulster County Environmental Health Department with graphics supplied by the Ulster County Planning Board.

The booklet is an outgrowth of the county's mosquito control program headed by Frank L. Miller.

According to Harry Edinger, environmental sanitary engineer, the mosquito is "a dangerous antagonist." The booklet points out that although mosquitoes are small, their disease carrying activities are large. Also, only the female bites and she carries such diseases as encephalitis, yellow fever, dengue and malaria.

In addition to describing the mosquito's life form, habitat, habits, ecology and environmental requirements, the booklists 10 simple rules for dealing with them.

Copies of the booklet are available at the County Office Building.

Thomas Awarded 50-Year Masonic Pin

KINGSTON

Alfred R. Thomas of Wiltwyck Gardens, a retired employe of the Kingston Board of Public Works, has been honored with his 50-year Masonic pin.

Presentation of the pin took place this week following receipt of it through the Grand Lodge of Masons of New York City.

Thomas, a native of Watervliet, was a member of the Evening Star Lodge 75, F&AM, of Watervliet, for five years prior to his coming to Kingston.

The pin was presented to the Masonic member by the Rev. Robert T. Shellenberger, chaplain of Kingston Lodge 10, F&AM. Also attending the ceremony were Joseph Canfield, master of Lodge 10 and two former past masters, Gordon Craig Sr. and Howard Whittaker.

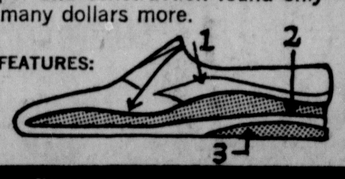

Thomas came to Kingston 45 years ago and formerly was associated with the Manhattan Shirt Co. with several of his brothers. He retired from the BPW in 1963 after 18 years of service.

Presbyterian Aid Fund Continued Despite Grant to Angela

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (UPI)—A $100,000 legal aid fund, which became the "hot issue" of the 10-day United Presbyterian Church General Assembly following disclosure of a $10,000 grant to black militant Angela Davis, was extended for three more years Tuesday night.

After more than two hours of sometimes heated debate, the voting commissioners of the 3.1 million - member denomination defeated 330-319 a motion to stop future aid to Miss Davis, an avowed Communist charged in connection with the fatal shooting of a California judge and three other persons.

A move to limit legal aid to $1,000 per case was defeated 364-299.

A motion stating "serious question concerning the propriety" of the Angela Davis grant was adopted by the policy making body of the church, however. The grant was revealed Monday night by the Rev. Edler Hawkins, chairman of the Committee on Church and Race.

Hawkins said the issue of Miss Davis' political affiliation should not be confused with the reasons for the grant.

"Miss Davis is being held, and because our mandate is on the basis of the implications of race, we made the grant because we knew this black lady needed help in securing an adequate defense just because she is black, and a woman," he said.

Alfred W. Dodge of Philadelphia said before the vote on the Davis motion, "Those of us responsible for raising funds for the church—we're going to have a hard time if this passes."

William P. Thompson was re-elected for a five-year term as stated clerk of the assembly—the highest administrative officer of the policy-making body.

Thompson, a lawyer from Wichita, Kans., was moderator of the 177th general assembly in 1965 and was elected stated clerk in 1966. He was unopposed.

Other actions taken by the general assembly of a 3.1 million-member denomination included:

—An invitation to four largely black denominations to enter into discussions on union with the church. The denominations are the African Methodist Episcopal Church, the African Methodist Episcopal Zion Church, the Christian Methodist Episcopal Church and the Second Cumberland Presbyterian Church.

—Advocating far-reaching innovations in the nation's health care system, administered by a single national health agency.

—Rejection of a motion that half of all persons appointed or elected to decision-making posts in the church be women, and adoption of a measure insuring "fair representation" for them.

Ancient York Celebrates Its 1900th Birthday

YORK, England (AP) — Emperors, conquerors, brigands and bombs all have left their mark on the ancient cathedral city of York.

But the quaint, cobbled city, which combines the best of the past and the present, has withstood centuries of plunder and power-games and this year celebrates the 1900th anniversary of its foundation in 71 A.D. by the Roman governor of Britain, Quintus Petillius Cerealis.

Thousands of visitors already are flocking to the city, sandwiched between the industrial Midlands and busy Tyneside, for the most lavish celebrations ever staged within its 14th century walls.

The festivities, which will be in full swing from May to October, remind both the casual visitor and the careless local that York is, and always has been, a pretty explosive place.

It was here that Guy Fawkes was born in 1570, 35 years before he set his sights on blowing up parliament and wound up with his head on the block.

And it was here that in 1739 the notorious highwayman and horse-thief Dick Turpin took his last bold step—up the gallows.

Ever since its foundation, York has suffered at the rapacious hands of greedy warlords and power-loving politicians.

The military capital of Roman Britain and a key point on the route to the North, its early history was scarred by bloody clashes between the occupying forces and oppressed northerners.

Peace was not restored with the expulsion of that first invader: the city was still to feel the wrath of William the Conqueror, Oliver Cromwell and, ultimately, the German bomb.

The anniversary celebrations recall York's checkered history in a spectacular multi-pageant, set against the background ruins of the 13th century St. Mary's Abbey.

Most impressive, however, is the re-enactment of the 1644 Civil War battle of Marston Moor, which signaled York's fall to Cromwell's Roundhead troops.

Another highlight is the re-creation of the funeral of Roman emperor Lucius Septimius Severus, who ended his despotic rule in York in 211 A.D.

York Minster—the vast and beautiful cathedral, built on the site of an early 9th century church—is the center of an expensive musical program. Numerous orchestral and choral concerts are being held in the 13th century minster, which has been newly decorated, cleaned and restored.

Rev. Berrigan Gives Conscience Statement

HARRISBURG, Pa. (UPI)—Refusing to make pleas of innocent or guilty, the Rev. Phillip Berrigan and six co-defendants indicted for an alleged anti-government conspiracy Tuesday entered "statements of conscience" which termed the charges as "insane as our government's Indochina war."

Pleas of innocent on their behalf were entered by U.S. District Court Judge R. Dixon Herman.

The seven antiwar activists were arraigned on a general conspiracy charge, including plots to kidnap presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger, to blow up heating systems of government buildings and to burn draft records.

The charges are "legal overkill following military overkill. Both are devious, ruthless, mad," said Berrigan in a 17-line statement, shortest of the seven.

He and the six others arraigned were not permitted to read their statements in court. They were entered in the court record and given to newsmen.

"I will not respond to this indictment as the government would have me," Berrigan said.

"It is a potpourri of false charges, absurd allegations and acts labelled crimes by the law, obligations by thinking men," he said.

"As a legal document, this indictment is about as sane or insane as our government's Indochina war."

One of the new defendants in the case, John T. Glick, 21, also serving a sentence for destroying draft records, told Herman he did not understand the charges against him. But, he added: "I do understand the government is trying to repress the peace movement."

Glick, son of the president of Keuka College in Penn Yan, N.Y., was convicted last year of breaking into federal offices in Rochester.

To Petition for Vote On Rosendale Salaries

ROSENDALE

A group of citizens objecting to the second increase of the Rosendale mayor's salary in succeeding years are beginning to circulate another petition calling for a referendum on the increase.

The first petition filed some weeks ago and signed by 151 citizens was declared illegal due to a disagreement as to the actual date of adoption of the village resolution increasing the salary. When Mayor Carl Grassi took office the salary was $500 annually. It was increased to $600 in 1970 and this year was listed at $1,000 in the village budget which was duly adopted.

A petition calling for a referendum on the subject may be filed within 30 days after the resolution is adopted. Paul Cahill, who is spearheading the circulation of the petition said the resolution on the salary increase was adopted at a special meeting May 5.

Village Trustees Arthur Mulligan (R) and William Ritter (D) each received $100 increases to $400 annually. They donated their raises to the Rosendale Library to make up its budget request cut.

Court Injunction Ends RPI Office Occupation

TROY, N.Y. (UPI) — Officials at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute obtained a temporary injunction Tuesday that ended a 24-hour occupation of RPI's administration building by students protesting the selection of the school's new president.

The peaceful protest began over methods employed by RPI's board of trustees in selecting Dr. Richard J. Grosh as president of the 5,000 student school. The court order is returnable June 3.

The protesters numbered about 200 when the sit-in began, but the total had dwindled to about 50 when a college attorney, armed with the court order, asked the students to vacate the premises. When they refused, the lawyer read portions of the document, issued by State Supreme Court Justice John T. Casey, and the students quietly left the building.

Appointment of Grosh, 43, now dean of the engineering schools at Purdue University, was announced by the trustees last Thursday. He will succeed Dr. Richard G. Folsom, who will retire July 1 after more than 13 years as president of RPI.

Student and faculty committees had recommended another man for the appointment, and the campus newspaper accused the trustees of an "unethical move" in telling Grosh the students and faculty supported him.

Blending Service Now In the Orient

LONDON (AP) — A do-it-yourself whisky blending gimmick has penetrated the Iron Curtain and now is on its way breaching the Bamboo Curtain as well.

John Hafenden, 57, dealer in whisky and wines, said he now is shipping his "master blender's" kits to Yugoslavia where they fan out to Hungary and Bulgaria. He says he has supplied some to interested parties in Tokyo and to British diplomats in Peking.

The kits are made up of our bottles of malt whisky, one of grain, a measuring glass and a token bottle of "Scots Water" from Loch Lomond.

Hafenden got the idea for the home blending device several years ago and introduced it in a pilot scheme in New York.

"That kit was too big and unwieldy so I have cut it down so it's not too heavy for ladies out shopping to carry home," he said.

The smaller kits have been reintroduced in the U.S., selling for $28.

Hafenden has added one more novelty:

"If you hit on a blend that suits you, the idea is to send the formula to us and we'll make up a stock with your own name on the label," he explained. "I admit it is a snob appeal."

The bottles are each 1-10th of a U.S. gallon, the malts are Tomatin, Glenfarclas. MacDuff and Islay and the grain is Invergordon.

Hafenden suggests a 25 per cent blend of each of the first two, 10 per cent of the second two, and 30 per cent grain.

"But everyone has different tastes. There are about 100 different blends you can make."

He's been in the wine trade since he was 16 and has had this idea kicking around for a long time.

"I couldn't afford the research, stockpiling and marketing until recently," he said.

"We now have 8 million gallons of malt and grain to tap from, all 4-years-old," Haffenden said. "That remains constant because we stock new whisky every year and let it age."

The five brands used in the kit, if blended properly, become a brand known as "Highland Silk" which seems to be the favorite behind the Iron Curtain.

"The Yugoslavs drive trucks full of meat once a week to London," Hafenden said. "They unload, scour the trucks out, and take back a thousand cases of Silk. They sometimes order special labels in Russian for gifts. The Japanese now are ordering theirs in Japanese."

He expects by Aug. 1 to have shipped a half million blending kits in one year which represents $1.2 million.

Pays $20 Fine On Trespass at Pitcairn Estate

GLENFORD

A 22-year-old woman was arrested Monday at 2:25 p.m. by Deputy Sheriff Donald Van Aken on a charge of criminal trespass third degree after she was found on the Pitcairn estate in this community.

Sergeant Ray Davis said Shelia Ann Crawford of 620 Darley Road Claymont, New Castle County, Del., was arraigned before Woodstock Town Justice Rudolf C. Baumgarten. She pleaded guilty and paid a $20 fine.

The complaint was made by Charles Relyea, superintendent of grounds at the estate, according to Davis.

Elected Mayor of San Jose, Was in WWII Relocation Camp

SAN JOSE, Calif. (UPI)—Thirty years ago Norman Y. Mineta was interned with his family because of his Japanese ancestry. On July 1 he takes office as mayor of California s fourth largest city.

Mineta, 39, was sent to a relocation camp with his family when he was a boy during World War II. After his election as mayor of San Jose April 13 he commented: "You have to let your experiences shape you, not distort you."

He is the first Nisei to be elected mayor of a major U.S. city and he has plans to introduce a new "town hall" forum to try to pull together San Jose, which he feels became fragmented as a result of its rapid growth.

"In 1950 we had 94,000 population. In 1960 we had 204,000. Today we have approximatey 465,000—our probem is this infux of new residents," Mineta said. "Sixty per cent of the people here were not here 10 years ago. They really don't know what the city is a about. We are trying to estabish machinery for better communications, to bridge this gap."

San Jose will be the first city of its size to have an official "town hall" meeting setup.

Mineta said San Jose does not have any major racial problems. He was elected mayor although only three per cent of the city's population is Nisei.

"I think that in terms of electability to a major public office, this shows that it can be done," he said. "But you have to have good cross-section community support."

Mineta was born in San Jose, went to San Jose High School where he was president of the student body in his senior year in 1949. He attended the University of California in Berkeley on a scholarship and finished there in 1953 with a Business Adminstration degree.

He joined his father's insurance business after working for a short time in San Francisco, and then went on active duty with the Army as an intelligence officer in Japan.

After 21 months service he rejoined his father in 1956 in San Jose, and now he heads the business which the family started in 1920. his father is retired and his mother is dead.

Mineta's wife, May, the former May Hinoki, is from Cousa, Calif., and is also a Nisei. They have two sons, David, 7½, and Stuart, 10 months.

We think lawnmowers are for mowing. Not for fixing.

The 22" Model 1254 is that kind of mower.
It features a solid, long wearing gear-driven self-propulsion system. And the power is on the front wheels, not the back . . . so all you have to do is tilt the machine back to turn it. You don't have to take it out of gear.
AMF's quadramatic suspension is another dependable effort saver. You adjust cutting height from 1" to 3" while the mower is running—simply by moving a lever.
The exclusive "Flexor" blade is still another feature. It bends . . . and the crankshaft doesn't have to. So we can guarantee the crankshaft for the life of the mower.
There's a lot more to the 1254, too. And a lot of other AMF models. All have the famous Flexor blade and a work-saving grass catcher. Some even have electric key start.

Professor Wins Grant In Science

STONE RIDGE

Roger Beaulieu, an Assistant Professor of Biology at Ulster County Community College, has won a National Science Foundation grant for advanced study this summer in the area of bacterial ecology.

With the grant, he will study at the National Science Foundation Institute at Arizona State University from June 14 to July 23. Included in the course of study will be field trips to Colorado and Utah for fresh water microbiology and to the Gulf of California for marine microbiology.

Professor Beaulieu also plans to take other studies over the summer to become more qualified in the area of pollution abatement.

The week of June 7 he will study Basic Freshwater Microbiology at the Robert A. Taft Sanitary Engineering Center in Cincinnati in a Water Pollution Control Training Program sponsored by the Federal Water Quality Administration of the U.S. Department of Interior.

Professor Beaulieu will return to Cincinnati the week of Aug. 2 for an Orientation to Wastewater Treatment Operation also sponsored by the Federal Water Quality Administration.

He has been a faculty member at UCCC for the last five years. Previously he taught at Hobart College and William Smith College and did neurophysiological research at the Worcester Foundation for Experimental Biology in Shrewsbury, Mass., for four years.

Professor Beaulieu received his B.A. Degree from Merrimack College and earned his M.S. Degree from Fordham University. Married and the father of three children, he resides in Tillson.

Attorney Will Teach Real Estate

STONE RIDGE

S. James Matthews, a Kingston attorney, will teach a popular Principles of Real Estate course which will be offered this summer in the evening by Ulster County Community College, Ronald A. Koster, the Director of Continuing Education, announced today.

This is the first time a sequence in Real Estate courses will start in the College's summer program.

Principles of Real Estate I is being offered this summer and will be offered again in the Fall Semester. To accommodate those students who enroll in the summer program, the College will offer Real Estate Appraisal, taught by Walter Donnaruma, in the Fall Semester. Principles of Real Estate II will be offered in the Spring, 1972, Semester.

"In this manner," said Koster, "a student can enroll in our complete sequence of three courses in Real Estate without overburdening his personal schedule."

Requirements for perspective real estate brokers will be changed in an amendment of Section 484 of the Real Property Law effective Sept. 1, 1971.

At the present time, a licensed real estate salesman, under the supervision of a licensed real estate broker, can obtain a broker's license after actively participating in the general real estate brokerage business for a given period of time. The time required could be reduced by attending and completing an approved Real Estate course.

Under the new amendment, a Brokerage License will not be issued until all candidates have successfully completed a Real Estate course approved by the Secretary of State. J. J. Yahm, examination technician in the Division of Licensing Services of the Department of State of New York, regularly acknowledges and supervises the course offerings of UCCC and has issued the certificate of approval for Secretary of State Lomenzo.

Mature adults are not required to have a high school diploma to take the series of Real Estate courses offered by Ulster. Although a high school diploma or its equivalent is required before a person can complete an associate degree program at Ulster, many adults without the diploma or its equivalent have successfully completed college courses in which they have an interest and from which they receive significant benefit.

Registration for the Summer Sessions is scheduled on Monday, June 21. The first class of the Real Estate course will be Wednesday, June 23. Subsequent classes will be on Monday and Wednesday nights until Aug. 11.

Interested persons can obtain a Summer Session brochure by calling the Center for Continuing Education.

Anti-Shoplifting Workshop . . . Prosecution Big Deterrent

By WADE BURKHART

KINGSTON — Prosecution is a great deterrent to shoplifting, particularly youthful shoplifting, according to Ulster County Assistant District Attorney Ellen G. Donovan, and George H. Rausch, assistant director of the New York State Commerce Department's Bureau of Business Service.

They were speaking at an Anti-Shoplifting Workshop jointly sponsored by the Department of Commerce and the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce held Tuesday night at the Benedictine Hospital Auditorium. Rausch said this workshop was one of over 100 that had been conducted in more than 50 different communities throughout the state.

Miss Donovan emphasized that the prosecution must be impartial. You have to prosecute everybody, regardless of station, or prosecution as a policy is not effective.

"The worst thing you can do is let someone off with a warning," said Miss Donovan. She said it tagged a store as an easy mark, and would only attract more shoplifters.

A film, "The Shoplifter", was shown as part of the program. It illustrated some of the common techniques used by shoplifters, and suggested some ways to combat them. According to Rausch, shoplifters make off with $3 billion worth of goods annually, $300 million in New York State alone.

According to the film, Friday and Saturdays are the shoplifter's favorite days, and opening, closing, and lunch hours his favorite times. These are periods of decreased alertness of store personnel.

This brought the film to its essential point. The way to prevent successful shoplifting is for store employees to be alert, courteous, observent, and devoted to "doing the best job of selling" they possibly can. Shoplifters, once they are in the store, can be discouraged by decreasing their privacy, as privacy is an essential for successful shoplifting.

CANE, DONOVAN, RAUSCH

Some shoplifting techniques shown by the film were "booster boxes" which are apparently sealed but can be opened to accept stolen merchandise, "booster bloomers" which can be stuffed full of such items as clothing (recommended only for the more generously sized shoplifters), 'magazine pads" where records are slipped between pages of magazines, and hollowed out hook books. It showed a professional female shoplifter at work as she demonstrated how she could make off with items up to 25 pounds carried between her legs and concealed by baggy clothing.

The film said over 80 per cent of the nation's shoplifting was done by housewives, and Miss Donovan said that figure was in line with her experience.

Miss Donovan said shoplifting was a crime, petit larceny if the item stolen was under $250 in value, grand larceny if over that figure. Many of the crowd of about 75 who attended the workshop were interested in what steps could be taken by a private citizen in apprehending someone committing this crime.

According to Miss Donovan, the key word was "reasonable." A store owner can detain a suspected shoplifter for a "reasonable length of time", and subject him to a "reasonable" amount of questioning. He does not have to warn the suspect of his rights, as a law officer would, and Miss Donovan said a signed confession was a great aid in prosecuting a case.

To obtain a conviction, the prosecution must prove the property was that of the store owner, it had value, it was taken, and there was an intent to steal. Intent was the most common stumbling block, according to Miss Donovan.

A store owner can make a citizen's arrest of a suspected shoplifter if he has "reasonable" grounds to do so.

Miss Donovan was pressed for a working definition of "reasonable" and she said there was none. She said the reasonablesness of an action depended on "common sense."

RVC Teacher Dispute . . . Hearing Set

KYSERIKE — A legislative hearing will be held Thursday night in an attempt to resolve the long-standing contract dispute between the Rondout Valley Teachers' Association and the Rondout Valley Board of Education.

The Board of Education is empowered by law to make a final ruling on the contract sometime after the legislative session. Their final decision is not expected to come for at least several days after the hearing is held.

Thursday's hearing is open to the public, and at that time both parties are expected to present their respective cases.

A legislative hearing is the final step outlined in Taylor Law provisions for settlement of a contract dispute. A legislative hearing can be scheduled only after an empasse has been reached, a fact-finder's report rejected and further negotiations deemed impossible.

Contract talks between the RVTA and the Board of Education began in January. The talks were declared at an impasse on April 19 by mutual agreement of both parties and an impartial fact-finder was called in.

Dr. Louis Salkever was appointed as the impartial third party by the Public Employe's Relations Board.

The fact-finder's impartial recommendations were submitted to Board of Education and Teachers' Association representatives on April 27. They were subsequently accepted in their entirety by the RVTA. The Board of Education, however, refused to accept the fact-finder's report in its final form, and suggested several revisions. The RVTA, in turn, refused to accept the modified fact-finder's report.

According to a spokeman for the teachers, the dispute centers around such items as class size, professional activities, insurance, duration of agreement and salary.

Negotiations broke down for the final time last week, and have not been held since.

At the May 18 meeting of the Board of Education, RVTA President Bruce Clarke called on the Board to return to the bargaining table. In a statement directed to return to the bargaining table. In a statement directed to the Board, he said, "Although the Taylor Law provides for it, surely you must see that a unilateral decision reached in a legislative hearing would not have the desired effect of a mutual agreement. It would in effect be no agreement at all." Clarke added, "We therefore feel that it would be in the interest of both sides to return to the bargaining table."

The Board of Education declined comment at that time and announced the following day that the legislative hearing would be held to resolve the dispute.

As required by law, Robert Robertaccio, Superintendent of Schools, must present his proposals for resolving the dispute at the legislative hearing. He told The Freeman Tuesday that he is "hopeful" that the compromise solutions he offers Thursday "will be acceptable to both sides."

There is still a possibility that negotiations may be resumed and the legislative hearing cancelled.

Robertaccio indicated that the chairman of the meeting Jack Van Newkirk, President of the Board of Education) will have the final decision as to whether public statements will be allowed. He said he expected, however, that a portion of the meeting will be reserved for statements by residents of the school district.

The teachers, meanwhile, have suspended all extra-curricular activities in the school district and are leaving the school grounds immediately after classes let out.

Robertaccio noted, however, that the teachers "have fulfilled all their repsonsibilities" and tha the school district "hasn't suffered any" because of their actions. But the Superintendant of Schools refused to rule out the possibility of a later "strike action" by the teachers.

The legislative hearing will being at 7 p.m. in Library "A" of the Middle School in Kyserike.

Man Arrested On DWI Charge

NEW PALTZ — State Police early today arrested Charles Sadowski, 39, of the Granit Hotel, Kerhonkson, on a charge of driving a motor vehicle while intoxicated.

Sadowski was stopped on Route 299 at 2 p.m. by Troopers P. A. Koenig and B. S. O'Connor. Arraigned before Town Justice Rexford Schneider, the motorist was held in $100 bail pending a reappearance in court on Friday.

Red Hook Seeks PERB Mediator

By TIM SCHUSTER

RED HOOK — The Red Hook Teachers' Association has requested that a Public Employment Relations Board mediator be assigned to the district to help move stalled contract negotiations with the Board of Education.

William Donnelly, a spokesman for the teachers, told The Freeman that "the association regrets that this step has been necessitated, but its repeated efforts to reach and equitable settlement have failed."

Class size, student day, salaries, increased curriculum coordination, and the hiring of two fulltime reading teachers are some of the unresolved areas that have been cited by the teachers.

Their statement said they "are hopeful that through mediation, agreement with the Board can be achieved."

The negotiatiors reportedly spoke with the teachers last Friday about the possibility of the impasse and received support. Donnelly said that the intent was to keep the problem low key and that morale was generally good among the teachers. He added that the teachers wanted to set a good example for the children.

Board of Education President Francis Rabbett, when contacted by phone, had nothing to say on the matter.

And District Principal Russell Keefe said he had conducted some telephone conversations with the group but had received no written comment or notification of an impasse, when asked Tuesday afternoon. He added that as far as he was concerned, negotiations were still continuing.

Keefe noted that this was the first time he was involved in this aspect of negotiations. The Board retains a professional negotiator, Robert Grey.

MRS. ANTHONY L. TERSILLO
(Lakeside Studio)

Tantillo - Tersillo

Miss Petrina A. Tantillo, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Tantillo of Gardiner, exchanged nuptial vows with Anthony L. Tersillo, son of Mr. and Mrs. Aldo Tersillo of Newburgh, Sunday, May 9 9 at St. Charles Borromeo Church in Gardiner.

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Robert Moore officiated at the double ring cermony. Mrs. Seeland, organist, accompanied Florence Linz and Joseph Locascio who sang traditional wedding selections. Baskets of white gladioli and pompons decorated the altar.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride selected a silk organza gown styled with a high neckline, fitted bodice and long sleeves. The sleeves and bodice were re-embroidered lace. Her fitted cap secured a cathedral length mantilla edged in reembroidered lace. She carried a bouquet of white anthoriums.

Frances Senescu of Highland was matron of honor for her sister in floral culottes with lime background. She carried a green cabbage rose.

Attendants were Roseanne Milo, cousin of the bride, Bronx, and Phyllis Tersillo, sister of the bridegroom, Newburgh. Their gowns were identical in styling to that of the honor attendant's. Junior bridesmaids were Maria and Judy Tersillo, sisters of the bridegroom; Kimberly and Shelli Senescu, nieces of the bride. They carried baskets of white daisies.

Frank Tersillo of Newburgh was best man for his brother. Ushers were Adlo Tersillo Jr., Thomas Tersillo, both brothers of the bridegroom, Newburgh; Peter Alongi, cousin of the bride, Bronx; and Vincent Pomerico, cousin of the bridegroom, Newburgh.

A reception for 270 guests was held at Governor Clinton Hotel, Kingston.

The bride received her MS degree from State University College at New Paltz and is a teacher at Valley Central Secondary School in Montgomery.

Her husband received his BS degree from New York Technical Institute and is employed as an architect by Montemarano Associates in Hempstead, L.I.

The tables were appropriately decorated with flowers, golden goal posts supporting the 1921-1971 banners and favors for each carrying out the class colors and golden anniversary. Name tags were replicas of the old writing slates.

WE AIN'T GOT NO SUGAR.

And we'll match our taste against any soda in the world. Any soda.

Our new sugar-free (cyclamate-free) NO-CAL has even less calories, ounce for ounce, than black coffee. You'll find that many of the leading "diet" drinks have added sugar; and lots of calories.

And here's why we'll match our taste against any soda in the world. We've already done it. We ran blindfold tests. We asked people to taste various sodas, both diet and regular, and tell us which they liked best. In every flavor, NO-Cal was either first, or tied for first. NO-CAL gave them lots of what they wanted—flavor; and hardly anything of what they didn't want—calories.

So be a loser and love it. With NO-CAL, the original sugar-free soft drink—and still the best. In all your favorite flavors.

Note: to diabetics. You can enjoy NO-CAL all the time because unlike many other diet sodas, NO-CAL contains no sugar.

Hints From Heloise

Dear Heloise:

Several weeks ago, I gave a shower for a new baby in our neighborhood and a friend inadvertently put a cup of hot tea on my beautful new $170 fruitwood stereo.

Well, my heart was broken until the next morning when my neighobor, Mrs. Murphy, brought over and aged and brown newspaper clipping which said to use mayonnaise to remove white water marks.

Well, Heloise, it was your column and I think it should be repeated for us newer homemakers who haven't seen some of the wonderful earlier hints.

God bless Heloise and God bless Mrs. Murphy.

Sharon Kroetsch

• • •

Yes, Sharon, mayonnaise is still the best thing I have found to remove water marks from table tops, etc.

Just RUB it in with your fingers. Let stand and wipe clean with a soft cloth in an hour or so.

I'm so glad that Mrs. Murphy was able to come to your rescue with this hint.

Heloise

• • •

Dear Heloise:

My husband discovered this hint while we were on vacation last year.

We stopped for gas and received a free carton of bottled soft drinks. But we had no way to open the bottles except by stopping and using the latch on the car door, which is highly impartical on the freeway or super highway.

So my brilliant spouse came up with the idea of using the seat belt buckle (the end with the hole in it).

It worked beautifully and was right there when we needed it. Of course, when not in use as a bottle opener the seat belt was fastened around us!

Mrs. W. R. Karcher

LETTER OF LOVE

Dear Heloise:

My mother, bless her, is always giving gifts to someone.

Often she has found herself with no wrapping paper, thus she came up with this idea:

She delivers the gift with her own personal note stating, "This gift is wrapped in friendship and tied with the invisible thread of love."

Bus Boy on Wrong Route to Love

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

(© 1971 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I am an airline stewardess, 30 years old, and happily married. I am a very friendly person, but I don't think I am overly friendly. I have been eating with my group at a certain airport restaurant which is very conveniently located and has good food at sensible prices.

During the last few months I noticed a bus boy (not young) being very attentive to me. The others in my group noticed it, too, because they mentioned it. I say hello and smile at all the people who work there, the waitresses, cashier, etc., and bus boys, too, but I never gave this one bus boy any reason to get the wrong idea.

Last week, just as I was leaving, this bus boy ran up to me and handed me a letter. I opened it and it was a love letter, declaring he was "in love" with me, and my eyes told him that I loved him, too!

I haven't been back there since. It's the best restaurant in the airport, but I'm scared to go back. I don't want to get him fired, Abby. How should I handle this?

PUZZLED STEWARDESS

DEAR STEWARDESS: Go back, and pointedly ignore the bus boy. He will get the message. If he makes any more overtures, report him to the manager.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I have been a professional artist most of my life. Not only do I love to paint, but it has been a tremendous help to me financially. Last year my husband died, and soon my only child will be leaving for college. The thought of my being alone has depressed me so much that I haven't been able to paint lately. If I don't produce something soon I fear that my reduced income will present a serious problem. How can I pull myself out of the vicious circle?

IN A SLUMP IN L.A.

DEAR IN: Start a new circle. A circle of new friends. Join your local art council. Museums and universities from coast to coast have membership associations. Dues go for the education and acquisition. Amd members go for fun. Good luck!

* * *

DEAR ABBY: My husband made sure I didn't miss your column about the wife who is constantly mistaken for hubby's mother. That's our situation.

I wish I could get together with the woman who wrote it. We could have a good cry together. I, too, am fat and gray. I have had 10 children in 14 years, so it's no wonder I have aged so. My husband never believed in giving me any help once they were brought into the world. He thinks that because he supports them (financially) his duty is done.

I have known for a long time that my husband is ashamed of the way I look. We hardly ever socialize. I do get an occasional invitation to the movies, but if they ever devise a way of showing movies with the house lights, on, I'm a dead duck.

I keep a clean house, an a competent mother, and I work part-time to supplement our income. (With 12 at dinner every night, I have to.) I also have a sense of humor. How else would I have survived?

—SIX MONTHS YOUNGER

* * *

DEAR ABBY: My husband is due home from Vietnam in two months. Already he has planned for us to go on a second honeymoon the day after he gets home!

We have a child, just seven months old. My husband has never seen the baby, except in pictures, so I can't understand why he wants to leave so soon without getting acquainted with his son.

I think we should leave on a later date, or else take the baby with us, but my husband already has informed me that he wants me to get a baby-sitter (either my mother or his) because he wants to go away with me alone. I know he loves me, Abby, but doesn't he love his son, too! What is your advice!

—WIFE AND MOTHER

DEAR WIFE: Of course he loves his son, but that's not the kind of love he has missed for so long. Line up a baby sitter and be ready to go on that second honeymoon when your husband wants to go. Give him a first class welcome home, with no arguments.

Carlton Defeats Chicago

'SAY HEY' SAYS THANKS . . . It was 20 years to the day that Willie Mays stepped onto a baseball field to play ball in a Giant uniform. The 20th anniversary came at Dodger Stadium and the Dodgers helped Mays celebrate the day by giving twenty cakes to local youth groups. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

By United Press International

Steve Carlton lost 19 games last season but it wasn't a total loss. He learned how to pitch and the results are evident this year.

Carlton pitched a six-hitter Tuesday night for his eighth victory of the season as the St. Louis Cardinals beat the Chicago Cubs 4-2. Carlton, who was 10-19 last season, is now 8-2, the best won-loss percentage in the National League.

"I'm a lot smarter than I was then," said Carlton about the sudden change in pitching fortunes. "I learned a lot last year. I had some things to think about."

Carlton, who was 2-6 at this stage of the season last year, allowed all six hits in the first three innings before blanking the Cubs the rest of the way. He retired 14 consecutive Cub batters during one stage to help the Cardinals remain a half-game behind the first-place New York Mets in the NL East.

"The way we've been playing lately reminds me of '67 and '68," said Carlton, referring to the Cardinals' pennant winning seasons. "The way Lou Brock gets on base and the way we've been scoring early in the game."

Elsewhere in the NL, the Mets edged Philadelphia 5-4 in 12 innings, Cincinnati beat Pittsburgh 7-4, San Francisco ripped Los Angeles 9-1, Montreal nipped Atlanta 3-2 and Houston defeated San Diego 3-2.

Ted Simmons singled home the tie-breaking run in the third inning and Joe Hague, who homered in the second, singled and scored on Ted Sizemore's single in the fourth for an insurance run. Chicago's only runs came in the third on doubles by Don Kessinger and Glenn Beckert and Jim Hickman's single.

Bob Aspromonte's run-scoring single off reliever Jim Bunning with two out in the 12th inning gave the Mets their triumph over the Phils.

Deron Johnson drove in three runs with a sacrifice fly and a two-run homer and Terry Harmon added a sacrifice fly to give the Phils a 3-3 lead in the fifth. But Ken Reynolds, making his first major league start, committed a bases loaded balk in the fifth to allow Jerry Koosman to score the tying run.

Cincinnati took advantage of three Pittsburgh errors to score seven runs in the first two innings, then hung on to beat the Pirates and provide rookie Ross Grimsley with his first major league victory.

The Reds scored three runs in the first with just one hit and added four more in the second off Bob Moose, who contributed a key error by throwing a bunt into center field.

Charlie Sands and Roberto Clemente had two-run homers for the Pirates.

Juan Marichal hit a three-run homer during a six-run sixth inning as he coasted to his seventh victory in nine decisions this year in the Giants' triumph over Los Angeles.

The Giants, who celebrated Willie Mays' 20th anniversary in the majors, moved out to a 9 1-2-game lead in the West while handing Bill Singer his ninth loss in 11 decisions this season.

Knuckleballer Phil Niekro walked in the winning run with the bases loaded and one out in the seventh inning as the Expos edged Atlanta. With the score tied at 2-2, Niekro walked Rusty Staub and Bob Bailey and Ron Fairly was safe on an error. Nierko struck out Coco Laboy for the fourth straight time but then walked Ron Swoboda to force in the winning run.

Johnny Edwards drove in three runs with his first homer of the year to lift Houston past San Diego. John Mayberry singled and Norm Miller doubled in the eighth before Edwards homered off Clay Kirby, who had pitched one-hit ball until the eighth.

Garry Jestadt drove in both runs for the Padres with a single and an infield out.

'Killer' Has Time

By United Press International

Harmon Killebrew has time on his side.

Of the active players competing for Babe Ruth's career record of 714 homers, "The Killer" is the youngest. He will be 35 on June 29 and, at that age, the Babe had 516.

Killebrew hit No. 492 Tuesday night and added a double to drive in four runs and lead the Minnesota Twins to an 8-5 victory the Milwaukee Brewers.

One more homer will tie him with Lou Gehrig in 11th place on the all-time list. If Killebrew hits 40 homers this year (he has five now), a feat he's accomplished eight times, he would finish the season trailing only the Babe, Willie Mays, Hank Aaron, Mickey Mantle and Jimmie Foxx.

That's pretty select company for a guy who hit a mere 11 homers in his first five seasons in the majors.

'I think Aaron has the best chance to catch Ruth," said Killebrew. "To me, he's the best hitter in baseball today. He has a smooth swing and uses his wrists a lot."

In other American League action, it was Detroit 7 New York 4, Washington 6 Boston in 11 innings 5, Kansas City 8 Chicago 3 and Oakland 7 California 5 in 13 innings. Cleveland at Baltimore was rained out.

Killebrew, who raised his batting average to .307 and leads the league with 36 RBIs, homered in the first, driving in Rod Carew, then hit a two-run double in a five-run sixth. George Mitterwald accounted for the other sixth-inning runs with a three-run homer.

Norm Cash keyed Detroit's two big innings with run-scoring singles as the Tigers posted their seventh straight victory by defeating the Yankees.

Joe Foy's fourth hit of the game, a bases-loaded single in the 11th inning, gave the Senators their victory over the Red Sox. The Senators rocked starter Jim Lonborg for three runs in the first and two in the fourth.

Yankees Trade Curt Blefary

OAKLAND (UPI) — The Oakland Athletics announced Tuesday night they have acquired outfielder-first baseman-catcher Curt Blefary from the New York Yankees in exchange for pitcher Rob Gardner.

Gardner, picked up from the Yankees earlier this year in the Felipe Alou trade, was shipped to the Yankees' farm club in Syracuse in the triple-A International League.

In a separate transaction, the A's sold pitcher Darrell Osteen to Syracuse. He was on the As Iowa farm club in the American Association.

To make room for Blefary on the Oakland roster, the A's sent outfielder Steve Hovley on 24-hour recall to Iowa.

"We have been looking for a lefthanded catcher for three weeks," said A's manager Dick Williams. "Blefary can also help us in the outfield, at first, give us an additional lefthanded pinchhitter and pinch runner."

Clete Boyer Admits Recent Blast at Boss

MONTREAL (UPI) — Third baseman Clete Boyer of the Atlanta Braves confirmed Tuesday night that he told a New York newsman "there shouldn't be any place in baseball for a guy like Paul Richards" and added, "now I want the Braves to trade me."

"I know I was quoted in a New York newspaper," said Boyer, referring to a story in the New York Post. "I meant it and I don't care what they think. I'm glad I said it and now I want them to trade me."

Boyer accompanied his pot-shot at Richards, who holds the title of vice president of Atlanta's baseball operations, with the comment that coach Eddie Mathews should be manager of the Braves instead of Luman Harris.

"Harris wouldn't be here unless he was one of Paul's pals," said Boyer. "Mathews should be the manager."

Boyer, who played in five World Series with the New York Yankees, said current members of the Braves tolerate the Atlanta operation "because they just don't know any better."

NFA Jolts KHS in Golf

KINGSTON — Newburgh Free Academy golfers took some of the sweetness out of Kingston's recent triumph in the Section Nine tournament as the Goldback linksmen defeated the Maroons, 7-5, to clinch the DUSO crown.

The match was played yesterday at the par-35 Twaalfskill course.

In another scholastic match, Saugerties edged Red Hook, 193-228 at Sawyerkill. It was the last match for the Sawyers, who end the season with a 5-5 record.

Newburgh—Champions

John Weiner and John Jacobs carded 39s for NFA and picked up a total of 5½ points. Weiner birdied the par-five seventh, pared the par-four eighth and hit another birdie on the par-four ninth to beat Mark Brown's 43, 3 0.

Jacobs didn't birdie any holes, but managed 2½ points over Bill Chappel's 40½. Chappel birdied the par-four fourth.

Kingston's Doug Tatara also had a 39, good for three points over Pete Fleming's 43-0, Terry Allred, KHS and Dave Marks split, 41-1½.

"I knew that Newburgh would be tough," said KHS coach Dick McCormick. "They have very good balance and showed it today. Naturally, we wanted to win and we didn't play that badly. But, they took us today," he concluded.

Sawyers Win

Steve Benham was the medalist for Saugerties with a 41. Bill Brinnier hit a 45 while Craig Fischer had 54 and Tom Herdman carded a 53.

Bob Fowler had a 55 for the losers. Pat Scheffler and Joe Grahame hit 57s, while George Collins had a 59.

Letter Day For Sawyers

SAUGERTIES — "It's a real human interest story," said Saugerties track coach Bud Smith after his team had just defeated visiting Onteora, 89-52 yesterday. "Three of my boys needed points to win letters and this was their last chance to do it," said Smith. "They came through and I'm proud of them," he concluded.

The three boys Smith refered to are Steve Thornton, John Cronan and Tom Kelly. Cronan and Kelly needed five points each, or first-place finishes to win their SHS letters. Thornton needed three, or second place.

Thornton got his second as he came home behind teammate Lee McMann in the 180-yard low hurdles. McMann posted a time of 23.5 seconds.

Cronan, a shot-putter, got his five points with a 41-foot, nine-inch effort. Cronan's toss was his best by four-feet, six inches and the best for the Sawyers this season.

Kelly thanked his lucky stars for his five-pointer as he won the pole valut at nine feet. Most Sawyer observers felt that Kelly might not get a first. But Onteora vaultors couldn't match the nine-foot effort by the Sawyer trackman.

Rodgers' 163 Leads U.S. Open Qualifiers

By United Press International

Phil Rodgers of La Jolla, Calif., shot a 63-69—132 Tuesday at Memphis, Tenn., to qualify for the sectional eliminations to the June 17-20 U.S. Open golf championship at Ardmore, Pa.

A total of 4,349 entries, an Open record, teed off at 55 sites Monday and Tuesday in a bid for 150 berths in the tournament proper. The 784 local surviving qualifiers advance to the June 7-8 sectional qualifying at 13 locations.

John D. Mahaffey, Jr., an assistant pro at Champions golf course, led 18 qualifiers in Houston, Texas, with a 68-68—136. Mahaffey, a 5-8, 150-pounder from Kerrvillen Texas, had a 32 after nine holes when rain washed out his efforts Monday afternoon. Bruce Lietzke, a University of Houston student, took second place honors with a 138.

Twenty of the 116 golfers at Alpine, N.J., reached the second qualifying stage. Otto Greiner of Tenafly, N.J., and Jay Morelli of Belle Meade, N.J., tied for the best score at 146.

Richard Spears, an amateur from Port Jervis, N.Y., who won the recent Sea Pines Invitational at Hilton Head, S.C., paced the 14-man Eastchester, N.Y., contingent with a 71-71—142. One stroke back was Bill Collins of Purchase, N.Y. a 1961 U.S. Ryder Cupper.

E.J. "Dutch" Harrison led St. Louis' 23 qualifiers with a 145. St. Louis Cardinal kicking specialist Jim Bakken failed to make the 153 cutoff.

Triple Play Helps Sawyers Dim Beacon

A two-run homer by Rich Koegel and a defense that turned in a couple of fielding gems, including a triple play, gave the Sawyers of Saugerties a 5-2 victory over host Beacon in a Dutchess County Scholastic League game played yesterday.

The Sawyers, now 10-1 in the Central Section and 12-1 overall, have clinched at least a tie for the Central Section pennant. Coach Tony Vizzie takes his boys to Poughkeepsie today for a game with Our Lady of Lourdes. Should the Sawyers win, they will have clinched the school's first DCSL title in baseball since 1955. Lourdes is 6-4.

Tom Cole posted the win for Saugerties. Cole, a Daily Freeman All-County pick last season, is 5-0 so far this year. Cole struck out two and walked four. Bill Markarin took the loss as he k'd nine and walked five.

In the DCSL Bi-Valley League, Red Hook ran its record to 13-3, 15-4 overall with a 7-2 win over host Cardinal Farley.

Saugerties had a double play to bail Cole out of trouble in the third. However, the big play came in the fourth, after the Bulldogs had scored a run. John Siebert led off with a single and scored on a two-base error on Gene Healy and a hit by Vince Scully. Mike Romano then hit a bouncer to Gerry Malgieri at shortstop. Malgieri fielded the ball and tossed to second baseman Koegel for the force on Scully. Koegel then flipped to Dave Smith at first to nail Romano.

Smith, playing heads-up ball, saw that Healy had rounded third but was walking back instead of trying to score. The big first sacker fired the ball over to third baseman John Bach. Bach applied the tag in time to complete on of baseball's oddest plays.

Koegel was the big bat for the winners as he singled in Gerry Malgieri in the first inning after Malgieri had also singled. Mark Salinovich scored after a single on a basehit by Cole in the second.

Koegel then homered with malgieri aboard in the fifth, the shot going to deep right field. In the seventh, Dee White reached on an error and scored on a double by Bach.

Red Hook Wins

Glen DeCarolis, a sophomore with a 3-0 record, picked up the win for the Raiders, but needed some relief help from Randy Fister, who was credited with a save. Bob Sweaten took the loss for the Cadets.

Bill Reid had a two-run pinch-hit single in the fourth. Fister drove in two runs with a basehit in the seventh. Tim Cunningham went two-for-three.

Middies Edge Maroon, 11-8

KINGSTON

Middletown High School's baseball team clinched second place behind Newburgh in the DUSO League yesterday with an 11-8 win over host Kingston.

The Maroons are 1-4 in the league, 3-10 overall. Rich Klingman was the winning pitcher while Jim Milano took the loss.

Klingman struck out five KHS batters and walked four while allowing seven runs. Milano k'd three and issued four walks. He allowed all 11 runs; however, only three of them were earned as the Kingston defense committed five errors behind him.

Middletown blew the game open in the fourth and fifth innings as the winners tallied four runs in each. In the fourth, the Middies came up with four on no hits as four walks, three errors and two wild pitches allowed the runs to score.

In the fifth, three singles by Chuck Zimmer, Neil Turfler and Klingman, plus three errors, allowed the next four markers to cross the plate.

Kingston tallied five in the fifth to bring the Maroons a little closer.

Steve VanKleeck started off with a triple and scored on an infield out by Ralph Perry. George Geanuleas singled and stole second. Don Lackaye drove him in with a base hit and moved up on a single by Marsh Kithcart. Jim Ferraro reached on an error. Glenn Littlefield hit to the pitcher. Klingman overthrew first base and two more runs scored.

Kingston's Junior Varsity also dropped its first game of the year by a 2-1 score to the Junior Middies. Dan Brown and John Carter tripled for Kingston. Bob Marz pitched a two-hitter, striking out nine. However, the run that beat him was unearned. KHS is 12-1.

Bill Would Hike Hunt-Fish Fees

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — Governor Rockefeller has before him today a bill that could prevent the closing of most state fish hatcheries and game farms by raising hunting and fishing license fees by $1.

The measure gained final legislative approval in the Assembly Tuesday after having been passed by the Senate earlier. Sponsored by Sen. Ronald Stafford, R-Peru, and Assemblyman Clarence Lane, R-Windham, the increased fees June 1 for hunting, fishing, big game and trapping licenses will bring in an estimated $900,000.

According to Lane, the Environmental Conservation Department can use the extra funds to retain 15 of 17 hatcheries and two of the four game farms.

After state budget cuts, the department had planned to close eight hatcheries. Under the bill, the only hatcheries still set to close are St. Lawrence and South Otselic.

A spokesman for environmental conservation commissioner Henry Diamond said the commissioner thought passage of the bill was "great" and that he hoped the department would be able to "maintain a high level of hatchery and game-farm production."

The spokesman said that pending final appropriations the game farms that would be kept open would be John White in Oakfield in western New York and the Ithaca operation. Game farms at Brownville and in the Albany suburb of Delmar would be put on a standby basis.

The change will mean hunting, fishing, big game and trapping licenses will go from $3.25 each to $4.25. The combination hunting and fishing license will go up $2 to $7.75.

NEW PALTZ

Joe Owens, Athletic Director for New Paltz State, said today that the NCAA District Two Tennis Championships, slated for the State campus this weekend, has been switched to East Stroudsburg, Pa. The dates have also been changed to June 3-4.

"They hosted the event last year and asked if they could do it again this time around," said Owens. "We went along with the change and will be the host next year. The rule of thumb for it will be that the host school will do it two years in a row, if it is desired," he concluded.

Atlantic Frost First at Raceway

MONTICELLO — When even money favorite, Cathy's Russ went off stride at the outset and again at the head of the stretch, Atlantic Frost came on to win the featured $2,000 trot at Monticello Raceway Tuesday night.

The seven-year-old owned by John Patterson was under the reins of catch-driving Elden Turcotte in the winning effort, touring the mile in 2:09.1 over a rain-softened but "good" track. Lone Shark was second and Joseppe came on for third. Atlantic Frost paid $8.20, $3.60 and $2.60.

Turcotte went from the No. 5 post and moved right to the front as favored Cathy's Russ driven by Bob Camper broke stride right after the starter's gate.

But Camper brought Cathy's Russ back on the trot and moved from 20 lengths off the lead to the front as they went by the three-quarters post. But closing around the final turn ot the top of the stretch, Cathy's Russ again went off gait.

Tuesday night's daily double of 2-1 (Jean's Beauty and Wins Rascal) yielded a slim $9.60. Russ McKinnon drove the winner of the first race and Eldon Harner reined him Wins Rascal for his 13th victory of the Monticello campaign.

McKinnon is bidding for the dash leadership. Gilles LaChance going into Tuesday night had won 15, as had Clint Galbraith, who were knotted for the lead. Ken Heeney, defending titlist, also has 13 and George Gilmour has won 11.

The Superfecta combination of 5-2-4-7 paid $1,398.60. in the ninth race. Jackpot Mir (3.60) was the winner, followed by Chestnut Earl, Third Alarm and Mar Con Karat.

A crowd of 2,162 wagered $209,165.

Herbe Fillion reined Waverly Hostess into the lead just past the half-pole and the young daughter of Florlis cross the over Spree Hanover in Tuesday night's non-betting, $25,747 Hudson Filly Trot at Yonkers Raceway.

Waverly Hostess trotted the mile in 2:06 3-5 in the harness racing highlight of the night around New York State.

The Freeman Team Makes Own Stories

KINGSTON — The Daily Freeman softball team knows that it takes an exciting come-from-behind victory to make a good story so the newspaper squad has responded with two such efforts.

This time the Freeman beat White Eagle, 11-10, in nine innings in the City Slow Pitch American Division B League. Cablevision topped the Boiceville Inn, 9-7; Telephone Boozers were stopped by the Jungle, 8-6; and State Road Runners clobbered Anchorage No.2, 26-15, in other games.

The Freeman had won its opening contest last week on a late rally in eight innings, to come from even further behind.

White Eagle led 6-3 after four but The Freeman scored three in the fifth to tie the tilt and send it into extra innings. The deadlock continued until the eighth when White Eagle scored one but The Freeman came right back again to knot things up.

In the ninth White Eagle sent three runs home and things really looked bleak for The Freeman until it responded with four in the bottom of the inning to win.

Captain Joe Darwak led The Freeman with two homers and six runs batted in. Jon Powers and Don Kaminski each had three hits as did Darwak.

Tom Mooney and Tony Turck cracked three hits for the losers.

A four run seventh vaulted Cablevision ahead of Boiceville Inn.

Charlie Koemm was four-for-four and Ron Jones clubbed a home run for the winners. Bill Hart Sr. notched the triumph and Joe Friedel took the loss.

Another four-run outburst provided Jungle with its margin of victory.

Telephone Boozers had a 6-4 advantage in the sixth when The Jungle went ape to help Vince Clearwater pick up the win.

George Bowers slammed a homer in a losing cause.

State Road Runners rocked 29 hits including six by left fielder Ralph Temple and four by first baseman Andy Lord. Joe Scully and Grant Stoutenburg had three apiece.

The victorious Road Runners scored ten runs in the top of the first.

Wayne Meyer had two homers and Bob Ennist clouted one for the Anchorage team. Ennist, Myer, Jim Hotaling, and Jim Martin Jr. each banged out three hits.

Salem Is Winner

By United Press International

Salem just doesn't have any respect for his elders.

Christiana Stable's Salem, the only 3-year-old in a field of eight, romped to a two-length victory Tuesday in the $20,000 feature allowance race at Belmont Park.

Salem won his third race in four starts this year as he took the lead from Found Gold midway in the 1 1-16 mile event and easily beat Ship Leave for a $6.40 payoff.

Faneuil Hall won her second race in 11 outings this year by a comfortable six-length margin as she took the lead soon after the start of the six-furlong sprint and brought backers a $6.80 winning payoff at Garden State Park.

Twice As Mad ($4.40) and Royal Pussycat ($6.00) finished in a dead heat for first place in the Arlington feature and Decacean (05.20) won the main event at Suffolk Downs.

Blame Travis Strife On Racial Dilemma

TRAVIS AFB, Calif. (UPI)—Maj. Gen. William G. Moore Jr., a World War II combat pilot who heads the 22nd Air Force, thinks violent disorders at this air base are the military's inheritance of America's "overall racial dilemma."

Airman 1.C. Bill Wilkoff, 23, of Beaver Falls, Pa., says it's not that simple.

To the beribboned, handsome Moore and his senior officers, the riotous brawl that erupted Monday among more than 400 airmen was a puzzling, abrupt thing. He respects the obvious grievances of black airmen, he said, "but we have been unable to find out what they are."

To the airmen, even those who considered the disorders senseless, the problems at Travis and in the Air Force go deeper than mere racial friction — although everybody agrees some of that was involved.

There are surprising complaints among the traditional gripes soldiers always have had —surprising to a traditional military officer but probably not surprising to a college president; the right to wear long hair, freedom from regimentation, even the right to demonstrate.

All concerened agree, too, that the disorder appeared to be the culmination of an incident Saturday when a white WAF was kicked by a black woman airman in a barracks fight.

Sporadic racial incidents occurred during the weekend, and two black airmen were put in the stockade.

Monday night it erupted—a four hour near-riot, finally put down by hundreds of military and civilian police, that resulted in one death, 10 injuries and 135 arrests.

Col. Carl Bender, who recently stepped down as head of the base's security police, thinks the trouble "had racial overtones but no one will probably ever know the real reason for it."

"The way it was going, toward the end, the fights could even have started over who would get the last lick of the ice cream cone," he said.

All authorities, including the Solano County Sheriff, agreed that at the end of the brawl "whites were fighting whites, blacks fighting blacks, and blacks fighting whites."

The disorders started after a group of black airmen marched on the post stockade with "the stated object," Moore said, "of freeing the prisoners."

Two in Belfast Shield Blast to Save Children

BELFAST (UPI)—A British soldier and an Irish policeman threw themselves between a terrorist bomb and several young children Tuesday night just before it exploded in a police station. The blast killed the soldier and wounded the policeman and 21 other persons.

Police withheld the identity of the soldier, the eighth killed this year in the sectarian violence between Northern Ireland's Protestant majority and Roman Catholic minority. Police said they had not made any arrests and were continuing their investigation. But they said one witness told them the bomber was "just a wee fellow. He looked like a schoolboy."

The bomb, a suitcase packed with about 25 pounds of gelignite, was hurled through the front door of the two-story stationhouse in the Protestant quarter of Springfield Road about 8:25 p.m., an army spokesman said today. The building also is used by the British Army as a command post.

The explosion wrecked most of the ground floor, blew out windows in surrounding structures and damaged five cars outside. The injured included one soldier, seven policemen and 14 civilians, three of them children. All but three of them were released from hospital today after treatment.

Patricia Harris Has Been Named To IBM Board

ARMONK, N.Y. (AP) — Washington attorney Patricia Roberts Harris has been elected to the board of International Business Machines Corp., becoming the first black to serve as an IBM director.

Mrs. Harris, the U.S. ambassador to Luxembourg during the Johnson administration, is also a director of Georgetown University, the National Bank of Washington and Scott Paper Co.

IBM said in its announcement Tuesday that Mrs. Harris is the second woman member of IBM's board. The first was the late Mrs. Thomas J. Watson Sr., wife of the company's founder, who was elected as a director in 1956.

Job Creation Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI)—House and Senate negotiators have agreed to seek final congressional approval for legislation that would fight unemployment by creating up to $2 billion in public works jobs.

The approval by conferees working out differences in bills passed by each chamber, came Tuesday despite warnings President Nixon might veto the legislation.

NOTICE OF SALE

NEW YORK STATE THRUWAY AUTHORITY in accordance with Article 2, Title 9 of the Public Authorities Law.

NEW YORK STATE DEPARTMENT OF TRANSPORTATION
T. W. PARKER, COMMISSIONER
NOTICE OF
DEPARTMENT REQUEST FOR LOCATION APPROVAL

On January 17, 1967, a public hearing was held at the New York State Armory, North Manor Avenue, Kingston, New York. Subsequently, on May 1, 1968, a public hearing was held at the Chambers Elementary School, 949 Albany Avenue, Kingston, New York. These hearings concerned the alternate locations being considered by the Department for the construction of approximately 2.3 miles of Route 9W relocation in the Town of Ulster in Ulster County. The project begins at Route 32 just north of the City of Kingston and extends northerly to Route 199 at a point approximately 0.3 miles east of the existing Route 9W-199 intersection. At these hearings, the general type of facility proposed, the nature of the service which the highway is intended to provide, and the major features of alternate locations were discussed.

As a result of project planning, an analysis of the views of interested State and Federal agencies, local government agencies and officials and civic groups, and an analysis of the transcripts of the public hearings, the Department has selected one alternate for which it is requesting location approval from the Federal Highway Administration. This alternate has been designated as "Alternate B" and is generally located on an alignment east of and parallel to existing Route 9W beginning at an intersection with Route 32 approximately 0.2 miles east of existing Route 9W in the Town of Ulster and extending to a point on Route 199 approximately 0.3 miles east of the existing Route 9W-Route 199 intersection where the improvement will be terminated at an interchange with Route 199.

Information relative to the Department's location recommendation is available for public inspection and copying at the Office of the Regional Director of Transportation, New York State Department of Transportation, 4 Burnett Blvd., Poughkeepsie, New York 12603. This information will include the comments or views received from various Federal and State agencies, local governmental agencies and officials, and civic groups.

A notice stating the action taken by the Federal Highway Administration on the Department's request for location approval will be published in this newspaper.

The annual trustee meeting of the Mt. Pleasant Rural Cemetery Association will be held at the cemetery in Mt. Tremper, on Sunday, May 30th, at 3 p.m., rain or shine. Please try to attend.

Is Today's House A Bargain?

Today's house is the best buy in history. Research by the National Association of Home Builders helped develop new methods and materials enabling builders to construct a better designed, more durable and more comfortable home.

Items considered luxuries a short time ago are commonplace. Air-conditioning, multiple bathrooms, 2-car garages, family rooms, major appliances, patios, wall-to-wall carpeting are examples.

Interest rates on house mortgages have increased. Still home loans are the cheapest money you can buy. On a house—7½% (a typical figure) is the true interest and the rate you pay for the life of the loan. Home interest rates are much lower than on anything else you buy.

The best time to buy a home is as soon as you can afford it. Real estate is a family's best protection. Money you pay for shelter is fixed and the value grows. It has been true in the past, is true now and will be in the future. The time to buy a home is now.

YOU MAY PAY
20% MORE BY 1972

Increased material and labor costs raises a $20,000 house to $21,000 in a year—to $24,000 by 1972. Buy now—the increased value will be your gain—not loss. Selection is greater now in the Ulster County area. Realtors list them in The Daily Freeman classified section. Many can be bought with low down payment and long term loan. Check them out—let an expert help you on financing, values, taxes, schools, etc. Now is the time to buy a home.

ARE LAYOFFS AND RUMORS THREATENING YOUR SECURITY?

Thousands of people lost their jobs in 1970. They discovered that their security could be taken from them by changing economic conditions.

Does the "glamour" industry that you used to work for still look glamorous from your place on the unemployment line?

We won't say that we are recession-proof, but we will state that we have had very few lay-offs compared to other local companies this past year.

LOOKING FOR A PROSPECTIVE FUTURE?
TRAIN FOR A PRODUCTION CONTROL JOB

Experience not necessary but must be a reliable and steady worker. Must be good with figures and willing to accept responsibility after training. Excellent opportunity with bright future. Many company paid benefits.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Today most people are jealous of their rights or their loves, so make a point of being very careful to avoid stepping on anyone's toes in any way whatever. You have some urge to spend more than you can afford, or otherwise use poor judgment in personal matters, so stop, look and listen.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Being kind and gently with mate instead of berating him or her is best way to have real harmony now. Get busy making your home more attractive and comfortable. Do some entertaining in p.m.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) This is a day when it pays to say little because talking too much could cause trouble. Don't take any chances at misunderstandings. Home is your best bet in the evening.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Take care of financial interests now, but don't try to force own views on others. Listen to what businessmen with feet on the ground have to suggest. Follow the most practical ideas.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Although you are most anxious to gain some personal aim, don't force anything and it can be yours tomorrow. Improve your appearance so that you are more attractive to others. Avoid extravagance.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Instead of being so suspicious of others, show more courtesy and kindliness toward them. Pave the way for more successful operation in the days ahead. Avoid persons who are depressing; stay cheerful.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Go to the right sources for needed information so that you can gain your personal aims more readily. Mate wants to argue, but a smile drives away ill humor. Take time for fun tonight.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) If you argue with closest tie because an outsider is making trouble, it can cause difficulties with others as well. Show that you are wise and establish more harmonious relations instead. Get regular work done with skill.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You want to make radical changes now in the belief you can gain power quickly, but this is only an illusion, so stick to tried and true methods. Show an ally that you are ethical. Loyalty then pays off handsomely.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Get bills paid, but don't force others where collections are concerned. If mate is irate, don't feel imposed upon or attacked, since you have been guilty of the same conduct yourself. Patch things up nicely.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Don't enter into any argument between two others or you will be the loser, since it is a personal matter they alone have to settle. Meet expectations of associates. Operate on a high level of consciousness, however.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Rely on yourself to get that work done efficiently; don't expect co-workers to take it off your shoulders. Take time to rest so that you get rid of that feeling of exhaustion. Avoid gossips who waste your time.

PICES (Feb. 20 to March 20) Concentrating on whatever will bring you greater pleasure in the customary outlets is good now, but let things alone at home. Dissolve some opposition with a smile. Think along more constructive lines.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be one of those young children who will cry at the drop of a hat, so be sure that the home life is very placid. Teach this youngster to handle problems objectively and to acquire self-dependence early; criticism must be toned down to a minimum. There is fine ability at selling, so slant the education along such lines, and then there is no limit to the success possible in this lifetime Musical training is very desirable here, also.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

In 1961, President John Kennedy began his "New Frontier" program which granted extra government funds to education, housing and transportation. The World Almanac recalls that in his inaugural speech he urged all Americans to show renewed devotion in defense of America's ideals by exclaiming: "My fellow Americans, ask not what your country can do for you—ask what you can do for your country."

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

THREATS: (Q.) Stealing has taught me a lesson. I don't steal any more. But my sister knows I did and gets back at me because she knows. She wears my clothes without asking, and if I tell her to take them off she threatens to tell my mother about the stealing.

What can I do? I don't want Mother to know.—Can't Win in Houston.

(A.) Blackmail is just as bad as stealing. Your sister is blackmailing you with her threats. You are paying off by keeping quiet.

Quit doing so.

You can take one of two courses.

You can tell her that she can tell your mother if she wishes, but the game is over.

Or you can go to your mother and tell her what happened in the past, and that it is not going to happen again.

That second course is by far the better. It may not be easy to do, but you'll feel much better after you've done it. Why not do it right now?

TO A DANCE? (Q.) Is it all right to wear hot pants to a dance? Everyone is wearing them, but my parents say a dance is the wrong place.

I think it is right. What about you?—16 in California.

(A.) Hot pants are being worn in public all over America, night and day.

They look good on a girl if she has nice legs.

If you look good in them, and if other girls are wearing them to the dances in your area, I think it would be all right for you to wear them, too.

TV to Offer Alcoholism Study

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Countless public service announcements warning about narcotics use are currently seen on video, and now television is set to offer a one-hour study of a problem more identified with adults: alcoholism.

ABC-TV will present the program June 23, it is called "Alcoholism: Out of the Shadows," and the network says:

"Alcoholism is judged the nation's No. 1 health problem—surpassing heart disease, cancer and drug addiction—by the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare. It is estimated that between six and nine million persons suffer from this disease, two for every city block in America."

The broadcast, filmed mainly in Rochester, N.Y., features, according to the network, "the candid revelations of a group of now-sober alcoholics who agreed to appear on the program in the hope that their stories might encourage others to seek help as they did.

"In most television programs dealing with personal problems, the guests appear in shadow or 'back-of-the-head' shots are used. However, in 'Alcoholism Out of the Shadows,' the individuals face the cameras and relate their experiences openly."

The various networks, meanwhile, have come up with other program announcements of some interest. Among them:

—On June 14, CBS-TV will offer a rerun of an hour called "Higher and Higher, Attorneys at Law," starring a couple of performers who hadn't quite made it to the top when this show was done—Dustin Hoffman and Sally Kellerman. The program, a comedy-adventure about a husband-and-wife lawyer team who work on separate cases except on special occasions, obviously was a pilot for whopping audience.

—Those tremendously popular "Charlie Brown" video cartoons, based on the characters of the "Peanuts" comic strip, have long appeared on CBS-TV. And now Charles Schulz, creator of "Peanuts," will be the host of a one-hour NBC-TV special, "Snoopy at the Ice Follies," which airs Oct. 24 and seems certain to gain another a series that never got on the air. Hoffman plays a district attorney. Miss Kellerman ("Mash") and John McMartin, now in "Follies" on Broadway, play the married attorneys.

Opening lead—See article

From 1931 to around 1960 any expert pair would have no trouble getting to six hearts with the North-South cards after West opened one club. North would make a game-forcing, two-club cue bid. South would respond three hearts to show some values and North would go the rest of the way.

The average bridge player uses that same bid today and would get to the slam the same way, but some modern experts might have trouble because they use the Michaels cue bid to show majors against a minor-suit opening and not to show a rock-crusher.

Those North players would have to double the opening club bid. Slam should be reached easily provided South was willing to jump to two hearts with his six-card suit and two kings. It might even be reached if South just bid one heart, but we are sure that many charity game players didn't reach slam.

Strangely enough, the slam only makes because West does have an opening bid. Give East the ace of clubs and a club lead toward that ace would send South into the slough of despond when hearts failed to break evenly.

With the actual layout it doesn't matter what West leads. If he opens the ace of clubs South ruffs in dummy, cashes the ace and queen of trumps and leads diamonds. If West leads anything else South must go right after diamonds, although he can afford to cash one or two trumps first.

Abrams on Disengagement: 'Herculean Effort' Needed

SAIGON (AP) — Gen. Creighton W. Abrams said today a "herculean effort" is needed to keep U.S. troops as alert as they need to be during the American disengagement from the Vietnam war.

"An atmosphere and climate begin to prevail and with it comes a certain amount of laxity," the commander of U.S. forces in Vietnam told newsmen. "It just requires a lot of attention, a herculean effort to keep alertness up."

Abrams said the same situation prevailed near the end of World War II and the Korean war.

He declined to discuss the rocket attack last Friday that killed or wounded about 60 American troops crowded into one bunker at Firebase Charlie 2 below the demilitarized zone.

"I wasn't there," said the general. "I shouldn't try to kibitz what went on."

He also refused to confirm or deny reports that he reacted with great anger at a staff meeting last Saturday because so many men had taken refuge in one bunker. One officer who attended the meeting said Abrams "hit them with all eight stars," a reference to his four-star rank, four stars on each side of his collar.

"That's speculative," the general said today.

Abrams was interviewed after a ceremony at nearby Long Binh at which Maj. Gen. Jack J. Wagstaff took over the 3rd Regional Assistance Command from Lt. Gen. Michael S. Davison. The latter is taking command of U.S. forces in Europe.

On the battlefront, South Vietnamese forces claimed 48 North Vietnamese killed in a clash seven miles southwest of Charlie 2 and said they also captured 98 122mm rockets, with which the enemy pounded bases along the DMZ last week.

GEN. ABRAMS

Seven South Vietnamese were reported wounded.

Meanwhile, the South Vietnamese government announced that it would join in a 24-hour cease-fire around the seaward end of the DMZ on June 4, the condition set by North Vietnam for acceptance of 570 sick or wounded prisoners of war the South Vietnamese offered on April 29 to release.

It will be the biggest prisoner release of the war.

The South Vietnamese announcement called on Hanoi to "respond with some corresponding gesture of good will." North Vietnam has admitted holding 339 American POWs, most of them pilots, and the Saigon government says Hanoi also has more than 3,000 South Vietnamese prisoners.

The prisoners are to be transferred from unarmed allied ships to unarmed North Vietnamese ships at the 17th parallel, which divides the DMZ. A U.S. Embassy spokesman said the Americans would "cooperate in every way."

Nixon's Plan Survives Initial Test

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon's $1 billion plan to raise miliary pay and eliminate draft calls by 1973 has survived its first Senate test.

But Democrats are determined the voters should find out whether the plan works—before, not after the 1972 election. A vote was set for this evening on an alternative $2.6 billion plan that, according to its sponsors, would answer the questions in one year—before Nixon seeks re-election.

Tuesday, over protests that Nixon was luring poor men to fight rich men's wars, the Senate accepted the administration's proposal to give a $3,000 bonus to young men who enlist as combat soldiers.

The bonus is the keystone of Nixon's novel effort to raise a force of volunteers large enough to reduce draft calls to zero by mid-1973. Without it, military manpower experts have conceded the whole idea will fail, since few men choose hazardous infantry, armor and artillery duty voluntarily.

The bonus, which has been rejected by the House, was approved 49 to 25 Tuesday.

The vote came on an amendment by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., to strike the bonus from pending legislation to extend the draft two years.

Kennedy said the idea was no better than the $300 bounty the government paid to immigrant Irishmen during the Civil War to enlist in the Union Army in place of rich men.

He said it was "a blood bonus" that "seeks not only to entice men to join the military but to assume the greatest risk of death as well."

Also rejected, 52 to 21, was an amendment by Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., to stop assigning draftees to combat roles in Vietnam after Dec. 31 unless they volunteer for the duty.

The two votes signalled basic congressional acceptance for raising pay and allowances of military personnel to induce more volunteers and to eliminate the need for draftees.

Aussie Airline Pays $560,000 Ransom

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — An Australian airline paid a ransom of $560,000 today to a gang that claimed to have put a barometric bomb on a Boeing 707 jetliner with more than 200 persons aboard.

Qantas, Australia's international airline, made the payoff in the center of the city just as the plane landed safely at Sydney's international airport. It had circled for six and a half hours while all defense forces and police personnel went on a red alert to deal with the emergency.

Eight ships of the Royal Australian Navy, including two submarines and three destroyers, were rushed to the Botany Bay area on the edge of the airport.

An anonymous caller had telephoned the airport and said a bomb had been put in an airport locker. Police raced to the locker area and found the bomb.

With it were three notes. One said a similar bomb had been put aboard Qantas flight 755, which had left two and a half hours earlier for Hong Kong.

Examination of the bomb showed it was fitted with an unconnected barometric device. If connected, it would explode below 20,000 feet.

Also in the locker was a demand for $500,000 ransom, or $560,000 U.S.

The notes said the location of the bomb on the plane and instructions how to defuse it would be given when the ransom was paid.

The aircraft, then en route to a stop at Darwin, on the north coast, was ordered to return to Sydney immediately. The passengers were not told of the bomb threat, and the crew searched the plane but found nothing suspicious.

While a blackout was put on news of the threat, Qantas officials conferred feverishly with military and police authorities. They decided that the money must be paid.

Instructions for the payoff came in a telephone call to Qantas from a "Mr. Brown." He said Capt. Robert J. Ritchie, general manager of Qantas, should hand over the money in front of the airline's office in the center of the city.

Qantas officials raced around the banks, collecting the money.

At 5:45 p.m. Ritchie walked into the street.

A yellow hire van drew up beside him and a man identified himself as "Mr. Brown." Ritchie handed over the suitcases of money, and the van sped away into the rush-hour traffic.

"Brown" was believed to have worn a false beard.

Egypt Gets Red Assurances

CAIRO (UPI)—President Nikolai V. Podgorny assured Egypt the Soviet Union will continue its economic, political and military backing in the fight to oust Israel from lands occupied in the 1967 war, the semiofficial Cairo Newspaper Al Ahram said today.

Podgorny arrived Tuesday seeking assurances from Egyptian President Anwar Sadat that there will be no change in the close relations between the two nations after Sadat's purge of pro-Moscow government figures. They met only hours after the Soviet president arrived and continued their discussions today.

Al Ahram said the two presidents "discussed means to strengthen cooperation between the two countrie towards the elimination of the consequences of the Israeli aggression." It added that Egypt and the Soviet Union "emphasized their commitment to work for the liberation of all occupied Arab territory."

In addition, Al Ahram reported, "the Soviet Union emphasized its economic, political and military support to the United Arab Republic."

Political sources said Podgorny's swift reaffirmation of continued support indicated the recent political upheaval in Egypt would not stop Moscow from continuing its support.

Official announcements on the visit have said the main topic of discussion will be the conflict with Israel.

Four pro-Soviet faces were missing from the talks on the Egyptian side — ex-Vice-President Ali Sabry, and the former ministers of interior, war, and presidential affairs, respectively, Sharawi Gomaa, Gen. Mohammed Fawzi and Sami Sharaf. All four were arrested in the purge.

Political sources said Gomaa, 50, tried to commit suicide in Abu Zaabal prison a few days ago by slashing his wrists, but his life was saved.

Another leading detainee, ex-housing minister Saad Zayed, 50, went on a hunger strike and is being fed intravenously with glucose, the sources said. His life is not in danger, they added.

Gomma and Sayed, who are related by marriage, are among seven cabinet ministers and three high-ranking political party functionaries who resigned from Sadat's regime May 13.

The following day Sadat announced discovery of a coup plot and all nine were arrested. Since then some 200 other officials have been detained and scores have been suspended or transferred to less sensitive posts.
